Wanted, Air Bases
Bonus Bill, Number One
Good News for Tin Men
China and Japan

The delegate from Alaska wants a great air base at Fairbanks, plenty of airplanes ready, at short notice, to fly wherever they could do most good. The idea is a good one.

There should be other air bases, with bombing planes, fast pursuit planes, scattered along both coasts, at Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, others along the Gulf and up the east coast of the United States. Each base should have its efficient flock of submarines, long range travelers, to give any enemy warships or plane carriers the reception they need.

Also, there should be scattered at intervals along the coast high in the air, lighter-than-air dirigibles, acting as look-out posts, moving slowly along the coast lines, watching for trouble coming East or West.

All this would cost less than one-tenth the cost of one single bombing attack on one of our great cities and infinitely less than the amount that would be hastily, wastefully, ineffectually and dishonestly squandered if war came suddenly.

Don't forget the last time we were frightened and spent a billion dollars for airplanes that would not fly, another billion for ships that never went to sea and were only junked afterwards.

Payment of the soldiers' bonus takes definite shape. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma has prepared a bill to pay the bonus NOW with non-interest bearing government bonds, to be gradually retired by 1945.

It would be as well to give new government money without any bond nonsense, since our bonds are only fiat bonds, the same as greenbacks, with no gold back of them.

However, if it will save anybody's feelings, make it bonds that will be accepted as cash What harm would it do? No cost, except for paper.

How much good it would do to let veterans spend two thousand millions in every corner of the land. The country needs more money. That would help supply it.

Mr. Baruch, entering wholeheartedly into the President's campaign to prevent profits for munitions makers in war time, wisely urges preparation, says the country should buy and store thousands of tons of tin for use in the event of war.

"I think we ought to buy tin just as we would invest in a battleship, and keep it in storage."

That may not give profit to munitions makers, but it will comfort the tin miners that have on hand stocks for which there is no demand in depression. If some other "profit" preventer could persuade the government to buy and store thousands of tons of copper, aluminum and other things at the government's expense, other miners would be "much obliged."

What is the difference between Japanese and Chinese? Put that question to a dozen solemn owls, including diplomats that have served in China and Japan; you get no satisfactory answer.

One young man, Jack H., recently returned from a year in the Far East, gives you an answer, and a good one.

"The Chinese are intellectual, courageous, convinced in their inmost souls that they are the greatest people in the world. They haven't the faintest DOUBT about it, refuse to worry or exert themselves to prove their superiority.

"Japanese would like to believe themselves the greatest people on earth; they almost believe it, but are not quite sure of it. They are struggling really to convince themselves.

"To march as conquerors through a white man's country, Russia or the United States, would give them intense satisfaction. It would prove that they are the greatest of all people. The Chinese would not be bothered with such a march. They already know that they are the world's greatest; why prove it?

"The Japanese say six words,

4 GIVE BREATH TO NEW BORN GIRL

ZELIA JOLY DR. JOHN PAUL COOPER MRS. JOHN PAUL COOPER

Life breath was given to a new born infant by doctors and nurses in the John Paul Cooper Hospital, North Attleboro, today as the mother, Mrs. Lorne Higgins, prayed that her dream of five years—a little baby of her own—might live. Here are the doctor and nurses who gave the breath of life to the mite of humanity during a 50-minute battle. Nurse Zelia Joly Dr. John Paul Cooper and Mrs. John Paul Cooper.

Dream baby and the mother who prayed for five years that she might nestle to her breast just such a little bundle of humanity whom doctors and nurses had to aid with breath for 50 minutes at the opening of its little life. Here are the mother, Mrs. Lorne Higgins of Attleboro, and the baby pictured in the hospital after success had crowned the efforts of the hospital attaches to start its heart going. TWO NURSES AID FIGHT AS MOTHER PRAYS

North Attleboro, Dec. 22—In a 50-minute battle for the life of a new-born infant, the gentle and measured breathing of two doctors and two nurses brought life here to a baby girl for which her young parents had yearned for five years.

The life drama took place last night in the John Paul Cooper hospital with Mrs. Lorne Higgins, of 9 Parker street, praying fervently on a nearby hospital cot for the life of her first born.

The baby was born without any trace of heartbeat that could be determined by the most sensitive of scientific instruments. The battle opened then with Dr. John Paul Cooper, head of the hospital and department surgeon, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in charge.

Dr. Cooper was joined by Dr. Bernard Benjamin, who was visiting the hospital; Dr. Cooper's wife, who is a registered nurse, and Miss Zelia Joly of Providence, a student nurse.

On her nearby cot Mrs. Higgins

BEACHED LINER STILL AFIRE

Fire which started in the aft hold of the S.S. Ontario Thursday night off Cape Cod, still smouldered today as the liner lay beached 100 yards off Governor's Island, with the fireboats Mathew J. Boyle and Angus McDonald still standing by in the event of a new outbreak.

Meanwhile arrangements were being made for a hearing to be held next Thursday at the offices of the Steamboat Inspection offices, at which Captain John P. Kauserud and his valiant crew of 40 will testify.

Firemen still engaged in the work of smothering the fire, found conditions hazardous on the still slanted vessel. Frederick Sullivan, ladderman, sustained a crushed finger today when he slipped and fell

Snow for Yule Starts to Fall

It's not official, but it looks like a White Christmas this year—and high time, too, after what Boston got for the last few years!

G. Harold Noyes, government meteorologist, said there really was nothing to indicate what the weather would be like by Tuesday. His gaze pierced the future only as far as Monday morning, but he saw that it will be snowing then.

Meantime, it began to snow shortly after noon—a wet, fast-melting snow. But better snow, the kind that stays on the ground for a while, was promised for tonight and more of it for tomorrow, with a temperature dip into the middle 20s tonight.

Robbers Loot 2 Banks at Once

Okemah, Okla., Dec. 22 (AP)—Both banks in Okemah, the First National and the Okemah National, were robbed today and first reports were that the loot approximated $18,000.

$10,000 FIRE IN SOMERVILLE

A two-alarm fire this morning caused damage estimated at $10,000 in the Hill Building, a 75-year-old landmark in Union square, Somerville, and almost cost the life of Conger W. Record, the janitor.

He was asleep in the building, but was awakened by the smoke and managed to make his way to the street.

The blaze was reported by a milkman who saw flames spurting from a second-story window. Most of the damage was confined to stores on the first floor. It is believed the fire smouldered several hours before it burst into flames.

Firemen expressed the belief that it had been caused by a cigarette.

BANDIT SEIZED IN BACK BAY

Flying tackles by two Back Bay policemen brought the capture of a South End Negro at Falmouth and Norway streets today after the woman proprietor of a lunch room at 248 Massachusetts avenue had been beaten and robbed of $446.

Miss Evelyn Irish, 40, in spite of a blow on the head, took part in the chase that attracted Patrolmen Samuel Willis and Francis Fahey A few minutes before she had been hit as she entered the doorway to ascend to her second floor restaurant.

She carried a canvas bag that contained $316 and a pocketbook in which she had $150. In the hallway scuffle the holdup man dropped the canvas bag but ran with the pocketbook.

Patrolmen Willis and Fahey took up the chase on foot at Norway and Massachusetts avenue. They made the tackle together at Falmouth and Norway streets, just before two radio cars arrived in response to calls.

The captured man gave his name as Charles A. Danielson, 19, of 210 West Canton street, South End. Miss Irish identified him at the Back Bay police station as a former employe. He was temporarily held on a charge of suspicion of robbery and assault.

SAYS SHE KNOWS GIRL'S SLAYER

A South End woman this afternoon went to Deputy Superintendent James H. Claflin and told him the name of a man she said she believes the killer of Ethel Zuckerman.

The 18-year-old Zuckerman girl was stabbed through the neck in a South End bakery where she worked a year ago. Officers were sent into the South End to search for the man named.

Gloria Joins Mother As Crowd Cheers

GLORIA VANDERBILT

By Associated Press

New York, Dec. 22—After a separation of almost two months, Gloria Vanderbilt, 10-year-old heiress, and her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, were re-united today.

The meeting at Mrs. Vanderbilt's mid-town home was, apparently, a joyous one for mother and daughter.

Soon after the child was hurried into the brownstone mansion at 48 East 72d street, she was whisked out again with her mother and into the Vanderbilt limousine.

The car sped away in the direction of Fifth avenue, mother and daughter sharing the secret of how they would celebrate.

Gaping folks who had collected in front of the house were disappointed.

JAPANESE ISLE ROUTS PRIESTS

By Associated Press

Tokio, Dec. 22—Incited by rumors of an alleged case of international espionage for which C. Ishoiie fathers were blamed, several hundred inhabitants of the island of Amamioshima destroyed several churches on the island, the newspaper Kokumin Shimbun said today.

The newspaper said a boycott had been begun against Catholics, and added that foreign Catholic priests and missionaries were evacuating the island for safety.

Confirmation of the reported violence was not obtainable. There are 15 Catholic churches on the island and also a number of Canadian Catholics.

Earthquake Rocks Nicaragua Capital

Managua, Nicaragua, Dec. 22 (AP)—An earthquake lasting 15 seconds shook the capital at 8:30 a. m. today, sending an anxious populace into the streets.

Although it caused no damage, according to early reports, the temblor seemed to have rocked the entire western slope.

YULE TRAFFIC TIES UP CITY

One of the worst traffic jams in years with motorists sounding their horns and setting up a terrific din in downtown Boston, when their machines became halted and immovable, brought reserves from outside stations to help in straightening out the tangle and speed up traffic today.

It was estimated two hours would be required for an automobile to travel from Boylston and Tremont streets to Haymarket square.

MAINE LIQUOR SHOPS CROWDED AS 75-YEAR 'DROUTH' ENDS

RUDY VALLEE'S FATHER GETS FIRST BOTTLE

By Associated Press

Portland, Me., Dec. 22—Maine's 75-year official liquor drouth ended today.

State liquor stores, each with a $10,000 stock, opened in several of the state's principal cities.

Portland's two stores delayed opening two hours as clerks worked feverishly to make last-minute preparations.

In Biddeford, Jere G. Shaw, recently appointed nonagenarian deputy sheriff was the first purchaser. A group of 100 men was in line there.

Jean R. Couture of the state liquor commission made the first purchase in Lewiston where 50 customers were on hand.

Augusta's store, which opened at 10 a. m., an hour later than those in Lewiston and Biddeford, was immediately filled with customers, including a few women.

Delay in shipments to Waterville, Bangor and Houlton deferred openings there.

Maine repealed its prohibition amendment to the state constitution in September and later a special session of the legislature enacted the state store law. Beer is sold in restaurants. Hotels may sell all kinds of liquor in February.

By legislative edict, liquor may be sold from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. weekdays and until 10 p. m. Saturdays.

Prices ranging as low as 40 cents for a half pint of "young" whiskey.

Gifts for More People; Record Crowds in Stores

By PEGGY DOYLE

If Boston's assorted selling forces know their salesslips and merchandise, the fat, little man with the white whiskers and the crimson suit will have a busier time cavorting up and down chimneys next Monday night than he has had in several years.

Though sable and emerald-necklace giving continues to be an exclusively Hollywood gesture, department store heads and merchandising experts indicate that more people are getting more gifts this year than since the year the country went boom-boom and Santa and his pack took on Jack Spratt proportions.

An E. T. Slattery Co. executive revealed that last Saturday was "the biggest shopping-day since 1926" and that, as a consequence, today was not expected to bring out any record shopping crowds.

At Slattery's, Filene's and other leading department stores, the trend was towards gifts of a practical nature, with the toiletries, lingerie, men's furnishings and fur departments doing the biggest business.

William S. McCloud, sales manager at Filene's, stated that since the fall and throughout this month, the fur business has been specially good, with the medium-priced coats the best-sellers.

A walk through the stores—a necessarily slow-motion one, with starry-eyed youngsters on the one hand and cellophane-wrapped packages on the other hand of intent shoppers furnishing the interference—revealed that men shoppers were in the majority.

Although Lieutenant Bill Harvey of the headquarters' traffic bureau had requisitioned six horses and twelve men for handling the throngs at that busiest of intersections, Washington and Summer streets, store officials believe that the big rush is over.

The "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early" slogan has finally borne fruit, they assert, pointing out that for weeks past there has been a large and steady stream of shoppers through the stores.

CURLEY NAMES 8 GUARDSMEN TO HIS STAFF

Eight officers of the Massachusetts National Guard were selected today by Governor-elect Curley to serve on his military staff.

The Governor-elect announced at the same time that he was withholding naming of his secretarial staff until he is given legislative permission to increase the force.

His military appointees were Captain John L. Pickett, 36, of 71 Fayette street, Lynn, at present a member of Governor Ely's staff, and Major John J. Higgins, 37, of 25 Weaver road, Springfield, also a member of the Ely staff.

The others were Major James F. Hickey, 63, who was decorated by President Wilson during the war; Captain Frank J. O'Rourke of 84 Howitt road, Roslindale, who spent two years in France; Lieut. Harvey E. Landers, 34, Boston newspaperman and a member of Troop A 110th Cavalry; Captain Francis J. Kelley, 34, of 1191 Boylston street, Back Bay, member of Headquarters Company, 26th Division; Captain Stuart G. Hall, 41, of 20 Chapel street, Brookline, furniture executive, and Captain Oscar C. Bohlin, 47, of 2 Gowell lane, Weston, who was overseas with the 101st Engineers.

Clara's Baby to Be Rex Larbow

By Associated Press

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 22—The four-day controversy over a name for Clara Bow's baby ended today in a three-way compromise.

The baby's name is Rex Larbow Beldam.

Miss Bow wanted it to be just Bow Beldam. His family name is Beldam, but he changed it when he went into pictures.

While they were debating the question, an astrologer came along and said that, for good luck and happy fortune, it ought to be Larbow Beldam.

The combination of letter-numbers, he said, produced a propitous equation.

Hitler Decorates Sea Rescue Heroes

Cuxhaven, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP)—Officers and crew of the liner New York and the Norwegian seamen whom they rescued after sinking freighter Sisto, were greeted by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on their arrival here today.

ERA Food Banned as Private Gifts

To put a halt to veritable barrage of requests from private charities that ERA foodstuffs be turned over to them with which to fill their Christmas baskets, State Administrator Arthur G. Rotch issued the announcement that "not an ounce of food, or any other commodity" will be turned over to any organization.

14 FACE DEATH AS SOVIET PLOTTERS

By Associated Press

Moscow, Dec. 22—Leonid Nicolaieff, accused assassin of Sergei Kiroff, and 13 of his alleged associates in an organization reputedly hostile to the Soviet regime, face speedy trials.

They were delivered into the hands of the military collegium of the supreme court as police brought an investigation of their activities to a close.

Secrecy surrounded the fate of Gregory Zinovieff and Leo Kameneff, former leaders of the Communist party, who were reported to be under arrest. The Soviet foreign office declined to comment on the report.

The London Express, in a dispatch from Warsaw, said Zinovieff and Kameneff will be tried by a court of five judges, including Joseph Stalin, whom Zinovieff bitterly opposed. The death penalty, the report said, "appears to be a foregone conclusion."

The police report of the assassination of Kiroff connected Zinovieff with the activities of a terroristic organization charged with plotting the high Soviet official's death.

The motive of the group, the report said, was to "disorganize the leadership of the Soviet government through terroristic acts directed against the chief leaders of the Soviet regime and thus gain a change in the present policy in the spirit of the so-called Zinovieff-Trotzky platform."

Soviets Threaten Battle in Manchu

Harbin, Manchuria, Dec. 22—Soviet and Manchukuan troops faced each other today over disputed frontier territory, threatening the most serious clash yet in the Russo-Japanese quarrel.

Soviet reinforcements were rushed to the aid of the fort's garrison.

100 Soviet Troops Cross Into Manchukuo

By International News Service

London, Dec. 22 — One hundred Soviet troops invaded Manchukuo today in the wake of a bitter dispute over a border fort on the Wuda-Ho river, according to a Reuter's dispatch from Harbin today.

Believes Betty Gow Aboard Aquitania

Greenock, Scotland, Dec. 22 (AP) The conviction grew here today that Betty Gow, former Lindbergh nurse, was on board the liner Aquitania, due in New York Sunday afternoon, where she is expected to testify in the kidnaping case against Bruno Richard Hauptmann. A relative here said she had sailed on the Aquitania under close guard.

Boston "Sock Dolls" for Ouintuplets

Into the Christmas stockings of the Dionne quintuplets at Callander, Ontario, Santa Claus will pop these funny, smiling, cuddly "sock dolls," made by a clever Greater Boston woman from a pair, each, of blue and white woolen socks. There'll be one doll for little Marie Dionne, one for Emilie, one for Cecilie, one for Annette and one for Yvonne. And they'll be as hard to tell apart as the Dionne quintuplets themselves. Pretty Loretta O'Brien of Roslindale is holding the dolls. They were made by Mrs. James E. Bigg of Everett street, Wollaston. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

GAY PARTY! MAYOR GUEST

Mayor and Mrs. Mansfield were the guests of honor at a gay party in the basement of the City Hall given by the 20 women cleaners of the building.

Music by all the best known orchestras, played on a phonograph, catering by all 20 of the women, arranged in a buffet supper; and laughter by the entire assemblage.

Gloria Visits Mother! Crowd Cheers Her on Way

mobile by uniformed policemen and private detectives, who formed a wedge for her into the open door of her mother's home. Mrs. Vanderbilt waited inside, unseen by any of the watchers.

Soon after little Gloria, always smiling, had been welcomed home she appeared at an upper story window. Then she darted from one window to another for a few moments, apparently amused by the crowds outside.

Her welcome home was, as her mother promised, a warm one. Mrs. Vanderbilt told reporters by telephone she was "delighted" to have her daughter back.

Forgetting the court battle with Mrs. Whitney over possession of the child, Mrs. Vanderbilt had prepared for days for the visit, the first advantage she had taken of Justice John F. Carew's order that Gloria visit her mother weekends.

"I'm not telling any one what I've bought her. I want this Christmas to be a surprise for Gloria," her mother said. "I don't want her to know what my gifts are until Christmas."

Mother and daughter will attend Christmas mass but Mrs. Vanderbilt would not say where.

"We will keep it quietly," she said, "it is a sacred occasion for me—this Christmas with my child.

"We want no notice of this Christmas Day. I want to take Gloria to church with me quietly and simply and unostentatiously."

Fitchburg Fire Probed

Fitchburg, Dec. 22—Inquest into the $750,000 fire which destroyed the high school here, causing the death of a fireman, will be held on Thursday.

MAILS BURIED BY YULE FLOOD

Boston's postoffices are literally buried under a flood of Christmas mail, Postmaster William F. Hurley said today. He said that every effort would be made to deliver the last bit of it by Monday afternoon.

The postal clerks, including 3600 extra men, worked 14 hours yesterday and will work all day tomorrow, he said. All postoffices will be closed Christmas Day.

An indication of the volume of Yule mail handled here is contained in the report of John F. Dinan, in charge of the railway mail service at the Burlington avenue station, who said that 188 freight cars full of mail were handled there on Thursday alone. He has added 600 men to his regular staff of 1500.

For his hard-worked men, Mr. Hurley had a bit of Christmas cheer. He announced that he had made arrangements for them to be paid in advance of the regular pay day so that they may have ample funds for the holiday.

Boston Doctor Wins War Award

Award of the Oak-Leaf Cluster, one of the highest military honors bestowed by the army, to Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft of Boston, formerly first lieutenant of the Medical Corps, 102nd Infantry, 26th Division, for "extraordinary heroism in action" in 1918 was announced today at Washington.

Dr. Wesselhoeft established a first aid station in no man's land despite intense machine gun and artillery fire.

$400 PAYROLL, DRIVER GONE

Search between Boston and Keene, New Hampshire, was started today for Bradford E. McGowan, 28, of East Newton street, South End, an employe of the E. J. Scanlon Inc. Transportation Company of Baldwin street, Charlestown, whose abandoned truck was found in Lunenburg. He had a payroll of $400.

McGowan was last seen in Ayer where he stopped at a lunch cart to eat early this morning.

He was due in Keene at 10 a. m. to pay off truckmen working for the same concern.

Broker Arraigned in Larceny Court

Frederick R. Sawyer, 32, of Summer street, Malden, Milk street investment broker, was arraigned in municipal court today charged with larceny of $10,000 from Mrs. Frances M. Macomber of East Cottage street, Dorchester.

Special Officer John W. Gorey testified that Mrs. Macomber gave Sawyer the $10,000 under a trust agreement. Mrs. Macomber to receive an income of $100 a month. The money was turned over on April 16, and on May 1, Mrs. Macomber said she received 100. On May 1 she received $50 and nothing since. Sawyer was held in $10,000 bail on his not guilty plea for hearing December 28.

Man, 71, Dies of Exposure

Fall River, Dec. 22—A search by police of two states and volunteers for William Ashton, 71, of Winthrop street, was ended when he was found dead, of exposure, in Little Compton, R. I., a mile from Adamsville.

Their Husband Is Jailed

Two wives and child of jailed bigamist. A partly-written letter fluttered to the floor, and that's why Robert John Hazlett, of Camden, N. BOY KILLED ON WAY TO LYNN

By Associated Press

New Brunswick, N. J., Dec. 22—Ten-year-old Raymond St. George, of East Falls Church, Va., was killed today in a freak auto accident on a trip he was making with his family to Lynn, Mass., for Christmas.

Raymond, three brothers, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. St. George, were driving through North Brunswick when the father swerved to avoid collision with another auto, the fender of which scraped the side of the St. George machine, tearing open the rear door.

Raymond, who was near the door, was thrown to the pavement, fracturing his skull.

Gabriel Hund, 71, of Highland Park, N. J., the driver of the other car, was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

St. George, a federal employe, said he was driving to Lynn, Mass., to visit Raymond's grandparents.

1 Dead, Others Hurt by Blast

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP)—An explosion of gas while seven persons were grouped around the crib of a baby girl who had just been named today left one dead, another dying and several seriously burned. The baby was burned slightly.

The blast also damaged the home of Marvin E. Sizemore, tearing out windows and doors and setting fire to the wallpaper.

Sizemore, 24, father of the infant, probably will die, hospital attendants said.

SCHULTZ BARES SECRET BRIDAL

Utica, Dec. 22—Dutch Schultz, in the first and only interview of his life, told the Evening Journal and International News Service today that he is a secret bridegroom.

He said the reason he vanished after being indicted on income tax charges was because former U. S. District Attorney Medalie "was vicious and tried to make me the scapegoat."

"It was a trap!" he declared with flashing eyes, "so I decided to stay out of it. Medalie went out of his way, being that I am a newspaper character, and used me to reflect glory on himself.

"He indicted me illegally. With a man as vicious as Medalie doing what he did, I knew I wouldn't get a fair trial.

"Sooner or later, I knew politics would change the situation and no matter who got in, no matter how severe, I would get a fair deal from them."

Asked if he surrendered on a charge of defrauding the government of taxes on a $450,000 income because he was afraid of gang guns or a fate like that of Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, Schultz said:

Crippled Collier Docks at Beverly

ROBINSON

WHY NOT GIVE YOURSELF A NEW DEAL?

"I'm talking about "Our Mary's" book again. For why? Because it's nearly Christmas. And I think that if I had only one dollar to help a desperate man, or a discouraged woman, or a bewildered youngster, I'd plunk it down for that small handful — and know I'd made one hundred per cent on the deal.

I've told you the name before —WHY NOT TRY GOD? (By Mary Pickford—H. C. Kinsey & Co., publisher.)

Now, generally speaking, books about God are the last thing I want to give any fellow in a jam. That, of course, is all wrong. They should be the grandest sort of medicine for what ails him. And I'm quite sure it isn't God's fault that they're not. From all indications, He seems to be a most friendly sort of an institution—and absolutely regular.

Elsie Robinson

But you'd never guess it by the time most of His press agents get through with Him.

According to them, a poor, darned fool mortal has just about as much chance of achieving a friendly, working basis with Jehovah as he has of draping himself with orchids. Which is a great pity. For if ever there was a time when poor saps like you and me could use a little divine co-operation, it's Right Now.

But this little book Mary's done, is something else. "Why Not Try God?" says she—and then she puts it up to you. She doesn't try to explain God—and what a relief THAT must be to the Big Man! Better still, she doesn't try to explain YOU. She assumes (golly that girl's a pal!) that you have at least the intelligence of a common woodchuck and a sincere desire to do Right By Yourself. And she merely proceeds to give you some tips—out of what must have been some pretty dark hours for little Mary herself.

Offers Advice

At the end of your rope? All right—she was, too. Tried everything—and landed nothing but bad breaks? You're nothing on her! So, obviously, you need a better deal, plenty and pronto. Very well, says Mary—MAKE ONE! IT'S UP TO YOU!

"But that's rot! sez you. "Did I pick depression? Did I pick all these bank failures, shut down and 57 varieties of assorted hell I've been handed these last four years?"

No, stranger, you didn't. But you DID pick the way you took them. The same misfortune can happen to two men, yet be taken in exactly opposite ways. One man will sit down and be sorry for himself—and spend his time blaming everybody else. The other fellow will roll up his sleeves and hit the line, looking for a way out. Both were handed a mighty tough chunk of raw experience, but out of it one man made GOOD luck and the other fellow MORE BAD LUCK.

Her Philosophy

You can look for anything, believe in anything, expect anything you choose. You can fill your mind with 100 karat good cheer, or with great, gray gobs of gloom—that's up to you. And your FEELINGS will be according to your FEELINGS. So you really will get out of life what you WANT TO GET. And if you don't believe that—just try it.

There's Mary Pickford's philosophy. Sounds simple, doesn't it? And it is simple. But don't kid yourself—IT PACKS AN AWFUL WALLOP.

"Why not try God?" says Mary. Meaning—WHY NOT EXPECT GOODNESS INSTEAD OF GRINDS? Why not bet on luck instead of lamentations?

Christmas Gloom Settles on Norma

Gus and I are best of friends says Judith Allen, who was formerly the wife of the champ wrestler. The screen star, who was a former Belmont High School girl when she was led to the altar by the creator of the flying tackle in wrestling, posed informally and discussed her affairs of heart in a frank manner. Yule Gloom Covers Norma in Her Cell

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

"What a difference a year makes."

Norma Millen made this declaration to jail guards as she anticipated a drab and dreary Christmas Day behind the bars of Dedham jail.

There will be no festive board at which the wife of Murton Millen, convicted machine gunner, can sit. There will be no decorative greens to pierce the stamp of a cheerful Yuletide on the day. To her it will be just another day of jail routine brightened perhaps by a special dinner of roast pork.

"There will be no Christmas party and Santa Claus will be just a legend as Murton's wife spends the day in monotonous routine of drab contentment.

On Monday, her father is expected to visit her. And jailers believed that Rev. Brighton will bring his daughter some sweets and delicacies as a token of Yuletide.

They revealed that Norma is doing a piece of needlework for her step-mother as a gift.

Jailers said that Norma has become quite philosophical and that very often she reminisces about the unhappy past. And during one of her reminiscent moods just a few days ago she blurted out the mature recollection of "what a difference a year makes."

JUDITH SAYS LOUD 'NO' TO MAXIE ROMANCE

Max Baer wanted to me Judith Allen told a representative of the Boston Evening American today. 'PA' DIONNE NETTLED HIRES 2 MANAGERS

Twin babies is what Judith Allen, who was Mrs. Gus Sonnenberg, wife of the former wrestling champion, wants. She made it clear that Max Baer was not in her thoughts matrimonially speaking as she has two professional men, one a doctor the other a lawyer, in mind right now to decide between before she makes her next trip to the altar. 'Pa' Dionne Dissatisfied Signs New Contracts

By Universal Service

Callandar, Ont., Dec. 22—Because Oliva Dionne is dissatisfied at the way he and his family have been treated, he and his wife and children, excepting the quintuplets, have acquired the services of managers, it was learned here.

The managers are Leo Dionne, brother of the quintuplets' father, and Leo Kerwin, both of Callander.

On July 24, 1936, the famous quintuplets will pass from the control of their present five guardians and into the charge of the new managers, who have a five-year contract with an option of renewing it for another five years.

The contract was signed, according to Kerwin, December 14. Rumors concerning it were said to have caused Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the quintuplets' physician, to cut short his recent holiday in the United States.

It also was learned Oliva Dionne was approached recently by some of the guardians regarding a new agreement, but he told them it was too late to discuss such a plan.

Dionne claimed he and his wife have been virtually ignored. He said donors informed him of gifts sent to the quintuplets, but that neither he nor his wife had seen these presents. He stated, however, he would not disturb the quintuplets for the present because they need the special care they are receiving at the Dafoe Hospital.

Girl Kidnaped?

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—A search was made today for Miss Alaska Guthrie, 17, factory worker missing since Wednesday, with police saying they believed she had been kidnaped or slain.

Two Banks Robbed at Same Time

Okemah, Okla, Dec. 22—The robbery of two banks in the same town at the same time—an ambition that led to the downfall of the famous Dalton brother's gang of 40 years ago — was achieved here today.

Six outlaws, operating in two groups, looted the First National and the Okemah National Banks of $19,000 while trussed up employes of the institutions looked on.

A plan of the gang to hold up the town's third bank, the Citizens State, was frustrated when Howard Frank, an employe of the First National, succeeded in freeing himself and spreading an alarm.

DOCTOR OR LAWYER IS JUDITH'S CHOICE

It's a toss-up between a young doctor and a young lawyer, and Max Baer is not even "in the running."

That's the report that Judith Allen of the movies made here today on the state of her heart.

The former Mrs. Gus Sonnenberg, a graduate of Belmont high school and daughter of a former Boston department store executive, said that her meetings with the "champ"—and she insists there were only two of them—were just "some of those things."

Babies—twins preferred—played no minor part in the star's conversation as she indicated that she was yearning for the settled married life with one or the other of the two young professional men in Los Angeles.

Miss Allen, at her suite in the Hotel Statler, said:

"You know after all I am getting older every day. That is probably the reason I would like to get married within the next year and settle down to a home life.

"I have my own home in Hollywood completely furnished. I have always loved babies and I hope I may be able to have twins.

"I am surprise dthat any romance connected me in a romance with Max Baer.

"Three months ago I was working on a picture with George Raft. George asked me if I would care to go to a party and told me Max Baer would be there.

"After that party I did not see Max until last night at the Boston Garden.

As to Gus Sonnenberg, her former husband:

"Gus and I are still the very dearest of friends. As yet I haven't had the pleasure of meeting his new wife. I correspond frequently with his sister, Agnes, in Michigan."

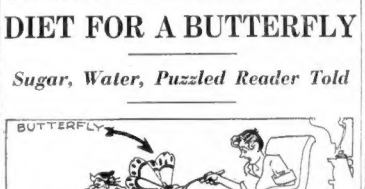
DIET FOR A BUTTERFLY

Sugar, Water, Puzzled Reader Told



Life's major problems have a way of sneaking up on a man and catching him all unprepared and bewildered—like a Boston Evening American reader who writes a puzzled letter from Pittsfield, N. H.

"Believe it or not," the letter says, "I have just caught a liver butterfly here, December 17. Please advise me how to feed same, during the winter."

Well, that's easy, luckily. A butterfly's diet is not expensive. According to experts at the Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology, a little sugar and water syrup is all that's needed.

Just water enough to dissolve the sugar, and a teaspoonful will be plenty enough.

Girl Sues Stepmother For Father's Lost Love

By Associated Press

Atlanta, Dec. 22—A suit which attorneys said is without precedent in the United States will come before the Georgia Supreme Court when 11-year-old Martha Louise Bridwell, child of divorced parents, appeals for a ruling on whether she can sue her father's new wife for the loss of his love, protection and support.

The child's parents, Max M. Bridwell, local salesman, and Mrs. Louise Bridwell were divorced Feb. 4, 1932. Bridwell on June 9, 1934, married Miss Justine Mitchell and the suit for alienation was filed while the couple were on what the petition described as their "luxurious wedding trip." Damages of $10,000 were asked.

A general demurrer entered by the bride was sustained by Fulton Superior Court Judge John D. Humphries and the case was dismissed. Len B. Guillebeau, attorney for the child, announced an appeal would be taken to the supreme court.

Martha Louise charged that she had been deprived of the love, affection, companionship, protection and support of her father by the "willful enticement" of the second Mrs. Bridwell.

McINTYRE

New York Day by Day

New York, Dec. 22—Dawn, crumbling into its shifts of pink and marigold, offers a glowing vista for looking back. For recapturing lost chords that reverberate a moment and tremble away. At 5 a. m. a huckster clip-clopping across town brought a sudden awakening and cascade of memories.

That stray wolf of the tenements, for instance, that some backwash of life lodged on our editorial step on Fulton street.

O. O. McIntyre

He may be a young man of affairs now. But then he was a bit of human flotsam the currents did not carry on. He stuck and ran our inglorious errands and slept in the mailroom.

We called him "Rags." Rather cruelly that described him. Desperately thin and spindly, we tried to fatten him. One Saturday we chipped in for an outfit. Yet next day he appeared in his tatters. He had given them to his brother. "He has a worse cough than mine," he explained.

And tragic Celeste, cigarette girl at Maxim's. They sent me to interview her after learning her earnings supported a social bounder husband whom she married when he cracked up in a wheel chair. "Two shipwrecks bound together," she philosophized, "may stay afloat longer."

In that toy Holland town of Delft, with its small ribbons of canals and foot bridges, another membrane of memory releases a knife-blade flash of long ago. A belled milk cart with its faithful dog straining underneath. A careless motorist rounding a turn. A crash! The shawled carter stretched bleeding along a gurgle of stream, the dog beside her with a broken hind leg but wagging furiously, licking her face and releasing whimpering barks—barking her up until medical aid arrives.

On Parade

Characters parade across the haze. Characters cushioned in a cheerfulness those in life's plushed corners never achieve. Jimmy Widmyer, the Cincinnati, and "Memphis" the Los Angeles newsboys. Chicago's blind fiddler and his dog —now gone. Slim, the lanky Houston waiter. Shorty, the dwarf bellhop in Mexico City. Two Finger Ed, the night-hawk cab driver of Reno. And Dutch, the pop seller at People's burlesque, with his sing-song cry: "You can't get it after the curtain goes up—Paw-up!" There was a whoop to their living. No complexes. No problems of culture. They were of the sidewalks, honed sharp by the flagstones.

And last night I heard that Sem, the Paris cartoonist, had gone over. He was piercing with his conversation, his intonation, his drawings. One limning caused the outrage.3 Fanny Ward to slap him publicly. Every morning he would swagger impudently down the leafy Avenue du Bois with his late friend, Santos Dumont, stamping the ground and tipping his outrageous hat to Ninon, Fleurette and Fifi. It will be difficult for Paris to be the dandified Paris of perfume, music and kisses without Sem.

COUNTY REFORM

43 States Are Acting

In all but five states of the union drastic reorganization of obsolete county and excessive local government is being forced upon the political legislatures by the voters and taxpayers.

Such is the report made by the Literary Digest, based upon a nation-wide survey.

The Digest's article, entitled "County Reorganization, An Active Issue," says in part:

America's basic form of local government—the county system, with its complex of minor units—has undergone many structural changes this year, perhaps more than in the last 140 years.

The new deal in local government will be put up directly to legislators in many of the 43 state capitols wherein regular sessions convene in January. Success for county-reorganization measures in several state elections has encouraged the movement to reduce drastically the 175,418 units of government of the nation.

Direct taxing power is held by 167,699 of these units, estimates by the bureau of the census reveal. Taxing units include the 48 states; 3057 counties; 16,559 cities, villages, towns and boroughs; 19,980 townships; 123,627 school districts, and 2566 miscellaneous divisions.

A number of states are setting up machinery to carry out the particular method of county reform approved by their voters on November 6.

For years the county form of local government, which antedates the Constitution, has been excoriated to little avail by higher public officials of all persuasions and belabored by political scientists.

Pressure of Public

Hitherto, the failure to root out this "invisible government," as President Roosevelt once termed it, has been ascribed to various obstacles.

It was explained that the county form was embedded deep in the state constitutions, and that constitutional changes take time; that local officials lack knowledge of improving county government, and that the spoils system, with its wide ramifications, prevents action.

Another powerful force against reform has been the appeal that deep-seated historical associations carry for the people of regions defined within county boundaries.

These obstacles, under insistent public pressure, are being hurdled in different ways by various states, spurred by the ever-increasing movement which developed after successful experiments with the manager plan in city government.

Commissions in 13 states—Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Delaware, Connecticut, Indiana, Texas, New York, North Carolina and Ohio—either have made or are making surveys of their local governments.

City-county consolidation measures, either local or statewide, were considered by the legislatures of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Missouri, Pennsylvania and Texas.

Consolidation of counties, long ago made permissive in Georgia and Tennessee, has been made permissive in Nebraska and Minnesota.

In New Jersey a bill for sweeping county reorganization was introduced in the last legislative session.

An enabling act will be introduced in the next session.

In New York the legislature considered a sheaf of bills at a special session called last summer by Governor Herbert H. Lehman and finally a concurrent solution was passed calling for a constitutional amendment to provide for optional reform through transfer of functions, consolidation, or abolition of unnecessary units.

The Kentucky Tax Reduction Association sponsored nine bills at the recent session of the state legislature. Five were passed. These measures will bring an estimated saving of five million dollars annually.

5 Changes Favored

Changes in the county government system are proceeding along five lines:

1—Change in the form of government, by centralization of authority inside the present structure; by a board of commissioners chosen from the county at large, or by the county-manager form in which an elected board chooses a manager who has supervision of general county administration.

2—Change in the area of government, by the consolidation of two or more counties to eliminate overlapping administrative and tax districts.

3—Change in the functions of government, by a shift of county institutions (hospitals, asylums, homes, etc.); shift of sheriff's police duties to the state or town; and, or, shift of educational functions to the state or town.

4—Abolition of counties and townships, giving state control through administrative units which would account directly to the capital.

5—Improvement in administrative systems through use of central purchasing, modern budget plans, improved tax assessments and collections, modern engineering systems, and civil service.

The general campaign to simplify county rule is proceeding on two extensive sectors.

The first is the rural-county attack.

The other is the urban-county movement, by which the large cities of the country seek to abolish or consolidate the county governments within their confines.

Despite the painfully slow advance in the urban areas, advocates of county reform nevertheless are cheered by the fact that the question has been pushed so forcibly by the voters into the attention of so many state legislators.

New Roosevelt Relic

Washington, Dec. 22—A colored bottle standing on the desk of President Roosevelt attracted attention. He said PWA workers had dug it out of the York River at the exact site where a British frigate was sunk in the siege of Yorktown.

WHOLE STRING OF DEATHS PROBED

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 22—The startling possibility that Albert Howard Fish, 65-year-old confessed slayer of six-year-old Grace Budd, was responsible for a whole string of child murders, which have puzzled New York police for varying periods, loomed today.

Definite efforts are now being made to link the ex-house painter with the fiendish murder of Francis McDonnell, seven, son of a Staten Island policeman in 1924; the garotting of Yetta Abramowitz, 11, in New York in 1927 and the kidnaping of Billy Gaffney, four, in Brooklyn in 1927.

A trolley car motorman has already identified Fish as the man he saw with the Gaffney boy on the day of his disappearance.

Yesterday Hans Kiel, on whose farm the McDonnell boy's body was found, identified Fish as the man he had chased off his land two or three days before the lad was killed. Fish calmly admitted having been on Staten Island at that time. He said he was engaged to paint a house near the Kiel farm, but denied slaying the boy.

Likewise the police say they have information that Fish was in the neighborhood of the Abramowitz home the day Yetta was taken to a movie by a mysterious stranger and then slashed, strangled and slain atop a five-story apartment house in the Bronx.

Meanwhile Fish today was in the hands of Westchester County authorities to answer to an indictment charging him with the murder of the Budd girl in a lonely, abandoned cottage a short distance from New York, six years ago.

He is to be examined by alienists on Monday.

LABOR GLOOMY ON JOB SLUMP

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 22—The American Federation of Labor views the jobs problem without optimism in a statement published today.

"Clearly we cannot count on private industry to find productive work for the unemployed in the near future," the statement said.

Placing the unemployed at 9,671,000 the American Federation said this represented an increase of more than half a million at this season.

Secretary of Labor Perkins, on the other hand, indicated she was well pleased with October figures as a whole.

She said that while industrial employment declined by 85,000 from October to November this year, the decline was smaller than usual seasonal movement in nonmanufacturing industries increased.

The Federation said the number dependent on relief was 5,000,000 greater than September last year.

SEA BALKS HUNT FOR WOMAN

By International News Service

Carmel, Cal., Dec. 22—Choppy waters threatened to balk divers in resuming search today on the bottom of Carmel Bay for the body of Mrs. Eliot Boke Schaffner, 36, wife of the wealthy Chicago clothing magnate, Joseph H. Schaffner.

Schaffner, who hurried here from Chicago, reluctantly accepted the police theory his wife had ended her life by wading into the surf four days ago when she disappeared from the health resort and artist colony. He said:

"My wife had been a semi-invalid for almost nine years. I don't think I'd have had the courage to stand it as long as she has.

"One of the things that hurt her most was the fact she was losing her hearing. She loved music and the prospect of losing that must have been terrible."

urged the quartet on. At intervals she prayed.

"If it's God will she will live. We have waited five years. If it's God's will——."

Dr. Cooper had turned to an old time method of restoring life. He leaned over the tiny form and started to breathe the breath of his own life into the tiny lungs.

Ten breaths to the minute. No more and no less. Dr. Cooper grew tired and Dr. Benjamin stepped in. The timing was perfect. Not a breath was lost.

Soon Mrs. Cooper took up the task. She was followed by Miss Joly.

At the end of 50 minutes the exhausted doctors and nurses were rewarded by flutters of breath from the little infant. In a few minutes more the breathing came natural.

Dr. Cooper turned to the mother and announced:

"You have a seven-pound girl. She is doing well."

Mrs. Higgins cried, but they were tears of joy. In the hospital corridor Higgins wept—unashamed.

Slipper Clue to Missing Matron

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service.)

Hollywood, Dec. 22—"Devil Dogs of the Air" will be the first Cosmopolitan production under the Warner Brothers banner.

After careful consideration, this picture was chosen last night because it will offer an exciting combination of spectacle, comedy and drama. The story is about the adventures of Uncle Sam's flying marines and the cast will feature such stellar names as James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Frank McHugh and Margaret Lindsay.

The trio of men played together in "Here Comes the Navy," which was a recent box-office sensation. Lloyd Bacon, director of the picture, also handles the megaphone on "Devil Dogs of the Air."

Cosmopolitan Productions is to occupy a fine new office building at the Warner Brothers studio. The offices were opened Thursday evening with an informal reception attended by Cosmopolitan and Warner Brothers officials and many celebrities from the Burbank studio.

Miss Marion Davies, Cosmopolitan star, talked on a long distance phone connection, to Harry Warner, Jack Warner and other officials at her new studio home. She also wished Max Reinhardt well on his new production, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The affair was a friendly get-together lasting several hours. Ed Harrick and Bill Williams of Cosmopolitan received warm greetings from the two Warner brothers, from Hal Willis, William Koenig and many others.

Jeweler Freed In P. O. Mixup

When a jeweler went into the Brighton postoffice this morning to cash a money order for $100, he found himself in the custody of police and postal officials shortly after he presented the money order at the postal cashier's window. He convinced police he came by the money order in a legal manner.

It developed that the order he presented was one stolen in blank from the Brighton postoffice about a month ago.

The jeweler stated that he sold a watch for $50 and was given the money order by a man he did not know, to whom he gave $50 in cash change.

MAYBERRY CASE HAS RECESS

With disbarment proceedings against Lowell A. Mayberry continued until the day after Christmas, it appeared today that the case, being heard in Supreme Court, would not be completed until New Year's.

The defense, starting in the afternoon yesterday, had George L. Mayberry, retired attorney, on the stand. He is the father of the man accused in the proceedings before Judge Henry T. Lummus.

The father told of how hard his son worked at his law practice, called the cases questioned in this proceeding "small stuff" and testified that he never knew the John J. Donnelly, jury fixer, whom the prosecution seeks to link to the younger Mayberry.

HITLER BLAMED IN CHURCH ROW

German missionaries are starving in the far corners of the world, their work at a standstill because the Nazi-ized Fatherland will not allow their salaries to be sent to them.

According to an editorial to be published in Zion's Herald, official organ of the Methodist Episcopal church in New England, in its issue of December 26, the Hitler government has "tied up" all funds of German foreign missionary societies, a total of about $1,600,000 a year.

The Swastika campaign of paganism will, according to the editorial, prove the ultimate undoing of "der Fuehrer."

"This latest development in Germany," says the editorial, "reveals nationalism at its worst," and adds that "judgement is just around the corner. The laws of God are woven throughout the warp and woof of human life, and men flout them at their peril."

It was also learned today that the Rev. William L. Stidger, of Highland avenue, Newton, sailed for Germany aboard the express steamer Europa to seek a series of conferences with Hitler. His prime purpose is said to be commercial rather than ecclesiastical, but it is expected that he may write several articles about religious conditions in the Third Reich—probably after he leaves Fascist territory.

The Zion's Herald points out that efforts are being made by a special committee of the International Missionary Council to finance the German missions until such a time that the administration relents in its attitude.

The Rev. Lewis O. Hartman, editor of the Zion's Herald, speaking at his office at 581 Boylston street, said today the antagonism that Hitler's Fascisti have created for all things German may make it difficult to raise funds for German missions, but felt that Christianity would prevail over nationalistic considerations.

1 DEAD, 3 HURT AS FISHERMAN BATTLES GALE

Her flag at half-mast, the Provincetown fishing schooner, Mary T. Goulart, limped into port at Yarmouth, N. S., today to report the loss of one man and the injury of three others in the terrific blow that struck her while she was fishing off that port.

According to radio messages received here, Frank Silva, a member of her crew, was swept overboard. He is from Provincetown, where he is survived by his widow, A daughter, Florence, lives in Medford with his brother John. A sister, Mrs. Mary Souza, lives in Cambridge.

The schooner's sails were whipped to shreds, her anchor cable parted and much of her gear was lost or smashed in the storm. After some repairs are made, she will leave Yarmouth tonight for Provincetown, convoyed by the Coast Guard Cutter Ossipee.

The American Trader, bound from Thames River Pool, London, for Boston and New York, today radioed that she had encountered such strong head winds and gigantic seas that she will not make port here until late Christmas night. She was scheduled to dock yesterday.

Her passengers, seven Boston-bound and eight booked for New York, will miss Christmas celebrations at home and will have to improvise holiday festivities on the storm-tossed freighter.

7 FIRMS PLAY SANTA CLAUS

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 22—Seven more corporations today played Santa Claus to their employes with increases in wages and bonuses.

In Camden, N. J., more than 3000 employes of Campbell Soup Company received Christmas presents totaling $18,63.

Lovell Manufacturing Company at Erie, Pa., added a $5 bill to the pay envelopes of its 456 employes.

Richman Brothers Company of Cleveland gave its 2600 workers a week's vacation with pay as a present.

Hammond Bag and Paper Company at Wellsburg, W. Va., gave its workers 5 per cent of their year's wages and an extra day's pay.

At Montreal, Aluminum, Ltd., announced wage increases of 11 per cent for all employes of the 10 companies associated with it.

The foreign office repeated a denial that France would formally join Japan in denouncing the pact. The chamber of deputies, however, insisted that the government plans either an outright denunciation or at least a public notification which one of its members described as a "moral denunciation."

HOLIDAY SALES NEAR PEAK OF BOOM YEARS

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

New York, Dec. 22—Dollars flowing with reassuring regularity into the tills of American retail business houses this month have established a Christmas trade reaching toward prosperity peaks.

A nation-wide survey conducted by the Associated Press reveals numerous reports pointing to a volume of retail shopping business ranging from "not unprecedented" in some sections to enthusiastic estimates of gains greater than 1930 or 1931.

Although the exact percentage of gain this year over previous years will not be known with finality until well into 1935, when books are rechecked, merchants in most cases declare their business will be 10 to 25 per cent greater than last year and decidedly ahead of 1932.

JAPANESE KILL 1922 NAVY PACT

By International News Service

Tokio, Dec. 22—Japan today formally notified the United States of her abrogation of the Washington Naval Treaty, thus automatically ending the 12-year-old pact and its 5-5-3 naval ratio at the end of 1936.

Foreign Minister Hirota cabled the text of the notification to the Japanese ambassador in Washington, Hiroai Saito, to hand to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

3 FLEE PRISON IN GREENFIELD

South Boston and Cambridge haunts of three accused automobile thieves are being watched today after their escape of the trio from Franklin County House of Correction, in Greenfield.

The jailbreakers are: Alfred Kirby, 18, of South Boston, who was waiting trial for the larceny of an automobile; Leo Fridella, 28, of Turners' Falls, serving a one year term for the larceny of an automobile, and four months for escaping from jail last September; Carl Oulton, of Cambridge, serving a two year term for stealing an automobile, and an additional amount for escaping last April.

Mayor Seeks Extra Pay Day for ERA

Because there are five pay days in January instead of the four that the United States government figured in its ERA allotment to Boston, Mayor Mansfield asked Arthur G. Rouse, state ERA administrator, today for more ERA funds so that there would be a pay day in this neglected week.

Receiving assurance that more money would be forthcoming, Mayor Mansfield conferred this afternoon with Colonel Thomas F. Sullivan, Boston ERA administrator, and with Edgar B. Foley, head of the Corporation Counsel, to draft plans for the forgotten pay day.

Ramsay McDonald Train Near Crash

Edinburgh, Dec. 22 (INS)—A railway accident that might have been disastrous was averted today by discovery of a broken rail in the path of a train carrying Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald from London to his Scottish home at Lossiemouth for a month's vacation. The break was discovered shortly before the train was due to pass over it.

Veteran Admits Slaying Widow

Bath, N. Y., Dec. 23 (AP)—Joseph Lewandowski, 64, an inmate of the Bath U. S. Veterans Home, today confessed to the Bludgeon slaying of the socially prominent Mrs. George H. Parker, 72, in a statement signed by him and released by District Attorney George W. Pratt.

Immediately after the confession was signed Lewandowski was arraigned before Police Justice Frank O. Day of Bath.

Bill Seeks Probe On State Building

Creation of a new legislature special committee to investigate the administration of the state department of public works during the last four years, with special reference to land takings and contracts for construction of the public works building on Nashua street asked for in a resolution filed today by State Representative William H. Melley of Chelsea.

Two Lowell Auto Crash Victims Die

Lowell, Dec. 22 (AP)—Chester Dutch, 53, of North Berwick, Me., and Charles Trumble, 55, of Nashua, N. H., died in Lowell General Hospital today from injuries suffered in a collision of their autos near Lowell Thursday night, when Trumble's wife, Gertrude, was killed.

FIRST FAMILY IS PREPARED

LIGHTS, GAYETY IN WHITE HOUSE FOR BIG DAY

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 22—The spirit of Christmas enfolded the White House today as President and Mrs. Roosevelt made preparations for their second yuletide in the executive mansion.

The President, closing up the executive office as the festive days approached, found a quiet nook in the White House proper, for there was much work to do before enjoying Christmas Eve and the tree upstairs with his grandchildren.

But part of his week-end task was itself a yuletide job—preparing the Christmas Eve message he will deliver to the people when he lights the big public tree in Lafayette park.

Four lighted trees on the front portico bespoke the festive air. There was a big wreath of holly hanging over the door; and, inside in the east room open to the public, a 25-foot tree gleamed.

The arrival today of the President's mother, Mrs. James D. Roosevelt, from Hyde Park, New York, assures that all the family will be on hand except one son, Elliott, and his wife. They went to Dallas, Texas, for Christmas with her family.

A big Christmas dinner, a party for the grandchildren the afternoon of December 28, a dance the next night for President and Mrs. Roosevelt's children, and a supper dance New Year's Eve also feature the holidays.

"We are going two miles north,' and they GO two miles north.

"The Chinese say the same thing, in six thousand words, and go nowhere.

"China has the better thinking brain, Japan the greater driving power.

"Japan would not attack any country unless she felt absolutely sure of victory. Russia's preparation, with airplanes and submarines at Vladivostok, make Japan uncertain. She will leave Russia alone; she waited too long there. She may decide to wait no longer as regards the United States and do something to prove her greatness now, while the United States is ridiculously unprepared."

Two men, formerly among the greatest in Russia, Zinoviev and Kamenev, seized and imprisoned, are accused of complicity in the murder of Stalin's assistant, Kiroff. Before Peter the Great's time, Russia was Asiatic, not a European country, and methods in the latest wholesale accusations of murder remind you of past centuries, when the murder of a prime minister by those desiring to take his place and bask in the favor of the Sultan was a common thing. Kiroff was near the throne of power, Kiroff is no more.

The new thing is Stalin bringing Zinoviev to Moscow from the Ural mountains by plane, talking to him for half an hour, then putting him in jail, perhaps to be shot with Kamenev. With modern Russians to think, apparently, is to act, no lost motion.

Three hundred children from public institutions were invited to an annual Christmas dinner given by a Mr. Caruso. In one institution a small boy awoke with measles, and thirty-nine others were told they could not go to the party. They knew exactly what to do and did it. They beat the small boy with the measles, beat him thoroughly.

There is a moral in that somewhere, connected with declarations of war, disarmament conferences, or something. You find the moral.

4 Students Killed in Crossing Crash

The dead are Kenneth Culp, 18, center on this year's Canonsburg high school football team; William McKee, 17, son of John A. McKee, superintendent of the local can plant; Fern Harris, 16, daughter of Samuel Harris, prominent Canonsburg merchant, and Jean Marshall, 16.

CRIPPLED SHIP MOVES SLOWLY TO BOSTON

NOW ON WAY TO BOSTON—Just before the air photograph of the rudderless freighter Severance was made 35 miles off Fire Island, in the Atlantic, there was fear that the waved-tossed craft and its men would have a tough time getting safely into port. The arrival of the Coast Guard cutter Champlain, shown in foreground, brought hope. Repairs were made. The Severance is now slowly but surely making its way to Boston. The cutter was maneuvering a fireline to the crippled craft when the International News Photograph Service cameraman made the picture from a Hearst Service plane.

HAS HE HIS HANDS FULL?—Oh, yes, indeedy! But Joe Ecker, Boston College hockey and football star, finds that this particular sort of toil—which he is undertaking at the Cocoanut Grove—has its compensations. In this case, the compensations are Betty Brodell and Mary Brodell, Cocoanut Grove entertainers. They'll team with Joe tomorrow night at the Grove's big benefit show for the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

APPEALS POUR IN; YOU CAN AID A NEEDY FAMILY

A leading Samaritan of Boston today contributed a check for $100 to the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

He is former Governor Alvan T. Fuller who welcomed the opportunity to aid in providing the needy families in Boston with Christmas baskets. He finds personal satisfaction in being a Goodfellow and in aiding others, and the same personal satisfaction will be that of other Goodfellows after they have contributed.

The Christmas Basket Fund at 15 is swamped with pitiable appeals from frantic mothers, discouraged fathers and hopeful children beyond the days of Santa Claus but who place hope and faith in human nature and charity.

Remember — there are but two days—then Christmas Day. There is time yet to send your contribution to the Christmas Basket editor, at 294 Devonshire street, or to take into your personal handling one or two or more of the applicants.

The mechanical department of John P. Squires of East Cambridge did its part today. John Hennessy, a steamfitter connected with the organization, took up a collection of $21.20.

Three Pennies

"Will you accept these three pennies from three little children. Their daddy has not worked for three years, but we are able to live better than some of the children you write about in your paper. I may it could be a dollar each in place of a penny, but a penny looks as big as a dollar to us."

They gave their little bit. How about YOU?

A vote of thanks for a very generous contribution goes to "Boston's Finest"—the patrolmen who protect your city. The Boston Police Relief association sent a representative of their organization to the Christmas Basket Editor with a $50 check.

And from Captain Edward W. Fallon of the South Boston station, a check for $15.10 was received. This was a collection taken up among the men.

But now the Christmas Basket Editor wishes the readers to glance at the other side of the ledger. The figures are in red on the "letter" side. The color of 'in' can be changed if YOU send in your donations NOW.

Curley to Help Give Out Baskets

Governor-elect James M. Curley and Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield will give out the first Christmas baskets to be supplied by the Volunteers of America to more than 5000 families. Distribution will begin at noon Monday at headquarters on Brattle street.

Many women and children will be entertained at a Christmas party to be held at Theodora House, and more than 200 old persons will be fed and entertained in the club rooms on Hanover street.

Christmas Basket Would Make Family Happy

As Christmas draws near many urgent appeals from needy families are pouring in on the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

Here are a few of the latest appeals. In view of need like this, can YOU put off any longer making that contribution to the Basket Fund?

CASE NO. 73

I am 12 years old and have three other brothers, 14, 10 and nine. My father has been out of work for two years and my mother is a very sick woman. She is trying to hold out until after Christmas to go to the hospital for an operation. She is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

We haven't got a stitch hardly. I haven't even got a coat or a pair of shoes. I wear 6½ shoes and my brothers could wear size 6 and 2 and 3. My two smallest brothers have been out of school for two weeks now and they have no pants or not even a blouse.

If you only please try to help it be a little happy on Christmas so we won't have to eat that canned roast beef like we did Thanksgiving. Just to make my brothers happy and my mother.

This little girl lives in Roxbury. Anyone who wishes to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for case No. 73.

CASE NO. 74

I am appealing to you for a little help just so as the youngsters can have a happy Christmas. We are eight in the family and the only one working is my husband. It is so hard to get along. The youngsters have gone back to school recently with clothing that the school supplies.

We would appreciate very much if we would receive a Christmas basket and any clothing for the youngsters, 7, 11, 9, 14, they are boys except the girl who is 14 years of age. Many nights the youngsters have asked for their supper and have had to go to bed with just bread. I suppose we should be thankful for that anyway, but it breaks my heart to see them suffer so.

We will appreciate anything we get, and if anybody wishes to come down to investigate they can, because I would appreciate anything anybody would do for us.

This mother lives in Watertown. Anyone wishing to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 74.

CASE NO. 75

Most of the letters I have read in your paper are from people with a large family, but maybe you can spare a basket for the six of us. Four children, actually babies, the oldest not yet five and the youngest 10 months.

We are on the welfare, and what a blessing that is. If you could spare us a basket I feel that we could possibly purchase shoes for two of the little ones that so badly need them. We have very little for shoes or even stockings, after paying for rent, milk and special food for a baby that needs these things. I am out of the hospital myself only five weeks after a serious operation, otherwise I would do my best to get any kind of work to make a Merry Christmas for my family.

My husband is anxious for work but unable to obtain it, and he certainly is a big help at home until I get my strength back.

I have never written a plea for charity before, but I sincerely believe you take care of all worthy cases and hope my little bread are among these.

This mother lives in Dorchester. Anyone wishing to help her may do so by calling the Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for case No. 75.

HILARIOUS JOE BROWNING AT THE SCOLLAY

Mr. Browning's witty sallies and songs, presented in an altogether informal style, delighted yesterday's audience. It's different, and it's hilarious, and accounts for the top billing that the comedian has had and maintains on the big time.

Runners-up for honors were the company of the Lee Stafford revue, with a novel smoke presentation, devised and staged by Mr. Stafford, one of the highlights of his "Modern Moods," which is not only modern but has a bit of the exotic in its clever dance features. Other favorites were the Five Crackerjacks, combining singing, comedy, dancing and tumbling; Weist and Stanton in up-to-the-minute "New Deal Laughs," Andrew and Carr Company in still more dancing; Pablo in amazing card manipulations, and Walter Nilsson in unicycle comedy riding.

The stars of "Flirtation Walk" are Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell in a tuneful comedy with a pretty love interest, some hit songs, and some grand dress parades by the "kay-dets."

John F. Fitz to Sing 'Sweet Adeline'

As an added feature of the program at the Paramount Theater next Wednesday, ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald will add his harmonies to those of the stars in "Sweet Adeline," the song which, among many other civic accomplishments, gave him fame.

"Sweet Adeline" is the screen attraction opening on Christmas Day at the Paramount, a film version of the musical romance by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein, with Irene Dunne in the leading role.

SHOWS Help FUND

GROVE PARTY TOMORROW

PARK MIDNIGHT PERFORMANCE SUCCESS

With Christmas rapidly approaching, fun-loving Goodfellows were pointed today toward the big Cocoanut Grove show tomorrow night in aid of the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund.

The Cocoanut Grove show will be the biggest Boston has ever seen on a Sunday night—and not one, but eight masters of ceremony will be required to handle it.

John F. to Sing

Charlie Hector will present acts from Loew's Orpheum. The Boston Evening American's own Newcomb F. Thompson, the radio "N. F. T." will present little Billy McNamara, seven, of Roxbury, and his brother, Paul, for song and dance prodigies, as well as a radio unit, consisting of Andy Jacobson, Russell Dorr, Billy Payne, Adrian O'Brien, Ethel Grenier and others.

Then Ranny Weeks will introduce Vicky Joyce and acts from RKO Keith's; the merry maestro, Jacques Renard, will be master of ceremonies when acts from legitimate theaters arrive, and George MacKinnon will officiate in introducing acts from the Metropolitan Theater.

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald will be master of ceremonies during part of the program.

Also there will be the Hans Wiener dance group, presented by Wiener; the Mary V. Corbett dancers; Britt Brooks, singer; Countess Rumanska of the American Legion Glee Club; Virginia Jordan, Gayety Theater star, and Yesime Hadgimanolis of Cambridge, in a doll dance.

Dinner will be at 8 p. m. at the Grove, and the show will run from 9 o'clock until midnight, with dancing from midnight until 2 a. m.—and all for only $2.50 a person.

Fetes Tonight

Meanwhile, tonight there will be a Christmas Basket Fund party in the Cameo room of the Hotel Avery, in Avery street, under direction of James Salas, the Cameo room manager.

Also tonight, Arthur "Red" Harrison will run his second Christmas Basket Fund dancing party in Robert Evans Hall, 53 Berkeley street.

Green Shoe Firm Plays Santa Claus

Some 2000 children in the South End and Roxbury were given Christmas presents of shoes by the Green Shoe Manufacturing Co. of 960 Harrison avenue, according to announcement made today by J. A. Stenberg, president, at the company's annual Christmas party at the Ritz-Plaza.

For a number of years the company has donated 1000 pairs to charitable organizations and churches, but increased the number to 2000 this year because of the unusual number of cases brought to their attention.

Helen Spurns Advice on Babies: Wife in Custody

by BEATRICE LUBITZ

CHAPTER XXXII

Both Stella and Irene were bursting with scientific formulae for the care and raising of children. Agnes, too, threw herself whole-heartedly into the subject. She tried to get Irene to weave healing beliefs into the process and, even though her suggestions were snubbed, she did not lose heart. Only Ethel refused to wallow in this "orgy of child-raising," as she called it.

"Oh, do have a baby, Ethel. It's the consummation of all that's fine and womanly in you," Stella urged one evening when they met at Anastasia's.

"Rats," Ethel said good-naturedly. "Neither Eddy nor I want a child. We're happy the way we are, thanks."

"You weren't so spectacularly successful," Agnes, who felt that Stella's remark belittled her hold on Carl, observed pointedly.

"My dear, she's simply dragging that kid up. She's not keeping weight charts or height records. Of course, Walter says the child's a picture. I don't go there, you know, since the way Helen behaved toward me, but Walter says she doesn't even have the child under the care of a specialist!"

APARTMENT A HUB

"I'm not sore at Helen," Agnes interposed eagerly. "I'll go with you, Ethel."

"I will, too," decided Stella. "After all, we never actually had words, Helen and I, you know. Besides, it's my brother's house."

And so Helen suddenly and without warning found her apartment once more a hub for their comings and goings.

• • •

Because of the strain on her health as the result of her operation, Stella had persuaded Walter that she could return to the Salon only on a part-time basis—full-time pay, of course. Walter had grumbled a bit but he paid the bills just the same and Stella's salary went on. And now a new storm was gathering. Agnes was beginning to nag at Walter. If Stella worked only part-time, why should she work all day? Besides, Agnes intended to have a nervous breakdown.

Agnes dissolved in tears and Walter had to repent his harshness. After a long hysterical fuss, Agnes won out. She came in only part-time and for a long time both Stella and Agnes were careful to let Walter know that so expert was their management that even on a half-time basis they were able to keep up the morale of the Salons and even increase the receipts!

• • •

TEA AT HELEN'S

"Don't you think you ought to protect this living room step by a gate, Helen?" Irene asked.

They were having tea at Helen's new apartment in the same house on Madison avenue, on the occasion of Irene's first official visit since the Stella affray.

"I don't think it's necessary, Irene. I want to teach her self-reliance. If she crawls too near, she'll fall and bump herself. Next time she'll be more careful."

"My dear, it's a commendably Spartan attitude, but there can be a fractured skull, you know."

"She's avoided going near that step so far, Irene. I think she knows danger lurks on the other side. She's really very clever about it."

Irene shrugged. "Isn't the floor too drafty for her to crawl?" she observed as she nibbled at the little cakes.

"I don't think so. I have deflectors in all the open windows," Helen said rather wearily. "Tea, Agnes?"

"No, thanks, but if you have some Poland water—I'm taking a cure."

"I'm so sorry I haven't. Next time I shall have some for you."

Helen smiled. "Tea, Stella?"

"Thanks, half a cup. Wells weighs 12 pounds, doesn't he, Irene? He's got a wonderful physique. What does Gracie weigh now, Helen?"

"About double that, I fancy. More cakes, Irene?"

"You fancy. Don't you know?"

"Fredericks weighed her last week but I've forgotten."

"Still got that dame! She's an awful nurse, if you ask me, Helen. For the money you pay her, you could get someone really scientific."

"Sh . . . she's in the next room."

"You ought to weigh her every night and note it, then you can make a granh of her gain or possible loss," Stella said primly.

DIRK APPROVES

"I keep weight and height charts for Wells," Irene observed.

"What possible benefit can there be? If you are doing all it is sensible, the child is bound to gain and the loss of an ounce or so is sometimes negligible."

"That isn't the point, Helen. You've got to do what's right."

Helen flushed. "I do—according to my light."

"I'm surprised Walter is agreeable to your . . . you'll pardon my saying so—rather haphazard way."

"Does Dirk approve of your scientific ways?"

"Certainly," Irene answered with some asperity. "Oh, I know Ces has probably been complaining because I don't permit the old folks to smother Wells with kisses when they come."

"Ces has never said a word, Irene."

"You see a lot of them, don't you —Dirk, too?" Stella added. "You're lucky Irene isn't jealous."

Irene grinned. "Jealous? Come, come, Stella, Dirk isn't Jerry, you know."

"You don't have to rub it in, Irene."

"No, I see that. One can be quite subtle with you these days, darling. But, Helen, to come back to our discussion, I really think Gracie shouldn't be allowed to crawl around the living room. If she must crawl, you ought to keep her in the nursery, where the floor can be kept sterile. Look at the germs she is being exposed to. We must surely have trekked germs in."

"I don't believe in germs," Agnes announced suddenly.

"Oh, rot, what do you know? You have no children—and never will have," Stella interrupted. "Irene is right. The floor is thick with germs."

"All right, I'll pick her up. Come to mama, darling. Little elf! Fredericks," she called, "you can take Gracie now." Helen pressed her hot face into the child's silken hair. Gracie cooed with pleasure. "You sweet," Helen murmured.

"Yes, I want to be back in time to supervise Wells' bath."

• • •

A few nights later as Walter and Helen, arms entwined, hung over the crib listening to the deep rhythmic breathing of the sleeping child, Walter said suddenly:

"Don't you think you ought to take her to a baby doctor every other week or so to be sure she's all right?"

RICH IN VITAMINS

"You mean a specialist, don't you?"

"Yes, that's it, a baby specialist!"

"No, I don't, Walter. She's thriving beautifully. She's well and happy and she laughs all the time. Don't you think that's a fair test of health?"

"Yes, but there may be things you're not doing."

"You mean I ought to keep charts and graphs?"

"Like Irene?"

The fire was burning brightly now. Walter carefully set up the fire-screen.

"I can't understand you lately. You're always so sweet until you start to talk about my sisters. Then you fly off the handle."

She laughed. "Darling, I'm sorry."

HOLLAND Three Plays Open Next Week

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Three hits may be born in Boston next week, and that means a million dollars. Opening here are Leslie Howard in "The Petrified Forest," Monday night at the Shubert; Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne and Osgood Perkins in "Point Valaine," at the Colonial Theater Christmas night, and Thomas Mitchell in "Fly Away Home," at the Plymouth Thursday night.

Also of importance to Boston theater-goers, but having no bearing on the national theatrical scene because the play is a last season's success, must be listed Blanche Ring's return to her natal city as star of "Her Master's Voice." Miss Ring in the Clare Kummer comedy is another Christmas night premier.

* * *

Distinguished sponsorship and the names of famous authors are attached to "Point Valaine" and "The Petrified Forest." Gilbert Miller, Mr. Howard and Arthur Hopkins are producing "The Petrified Forest," a new alliance in the theater.

Noel Coward is author of "Point Valaine." "Point Valaine" is being presented by John C. Wilson, a friend of Mr. Coward's, who has been associated with him as business mentor. Mr. Wilson is said to be a Briton, who is in the theater because of his regard for Mr. Coward.

* * *

All New York (and Hollywood, too) will be in Arthur Hopkins' corner in his venture with Messrs. Miller and Howard in offering "The Petrified Forest." One of the truly great producers in America, Mr. Hopkins has had some bad luck in his last few starts. Not that he broods if a play he likes fails to win commercial success. Mr. Hopkins gets a high meed of personal satisfaction from the presentation of a piece that he believes to be meritorious.

* * *

The case of "Fly Away Home" is something different. The play, a comedy by Irving White and Dorothy Bennett, was tried out in Stockbridge the past summer, and Theodore Hamberger, who owned the rights, first interested Thomas Mitchell, the excellent actor who played 16 weeks at the Plymouth Theater in his brainchild "Little Accident," and then Barney Klawans, of New York's 48th Street Theater. Mr. Mitchell is one of Boston's acting favorites. The authors of his new comedy are having their first play brought to production. There will be, for this bystander, more interest in the fate of "Fly Away Home" than in its rivals of the week. The theater needs some new playwrights.

AUTHOR IMPORTED TO AID STAR'S QUEST FOR FAME

Mady Christians Still Hopes

"CONGRESS DANCES" WRITER TO DO ORIGINAL FOR STAR

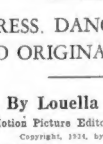
By Louella O. Parsons

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, Dec. 22—Mady Christians, who was widely heralded as one of the better foreign film actresses when she reached Hollywood, hasn't had much of a chance to prove her ability. In fact, she's been a distinct disappointment to those who expected her to be competition for Garbo and Dietrich. Louis B. Mayer believes Miss Christians needs a very special type of story so he is bringing Robert Liebmann to Hollywood to write for her.

Liebmann, a German newspaper man and war correspondent, is the author of "Congress Dances," "Waltz Dream" and "Blue Angel," all of which were listed among the best of the German pictures. Miss Christians appeared in "Waltz Dream" and it was this picture that won her recognition in America.



* * *

Every one will be glad that Jack Haley is getting a break. He came out to Hollywood, a great musical comedy favorite and made a few musicals and then we didn't hear anything more of him. The Fox Company has signed him now to play opposite Alice Faye in "Nymph Errant," the English play in which Gertrude Lawrence was such a hit. Mitchell and Durant (Molly O'Day's bridegroom) will furnish the comedy relief and the picture will go into production right after the holidays.

* * *

I paid Irene Dunne a visit on the "Roberta" set and watched her rehearse a scene with Fred Astaire. Fred is getting so popular these days that I thought I'd better go and take a look at him at work so that I could report to his many admirers. Fred wore the usual carnation in his buttonhole and was patience itself when they had to retake a difficult scene four times. I was surprised to hear that Randolph Scott plays one of the leads. Randy has finally gotten out of westerns and is now when he finishes "Roberta" he will play opposite Pauline Lord in "So Red the Rose." Atta boy, Randy!

* * *

I shall be waiting to see what Metro-Golden-Mayer does with Constance Collier who, to my way of thinking, is one of the swellest actresses on the stage. They are talking about "Shadow of Doubt" for her first picture and she'll have with her that excellent stage actor, Arthur Byron. In fact, Byron has been signed for two MGM pictures, the other being "Casino Murder Case," a Philo Vance number.

Chatter in Hollywood

Jack Gilbert has been desperately ill, so ill that only a few people have been allowed to see him. Among the visitors was Virginia Bruce who has never ceased loving Jack although she has stated again and again there will be no reconciliation.

* * *

Snapshots of Hollywood

MARCEL DE SANO who left for Europe six weeks ago, surprising IRVING THALBERG with a long distance telephone from New York; DE SANO says he is returning to Hollywood; SULKA VIERTEL asking the foreign colony to join her at a New Year's cocktail party; ADRIAN doing his share towards making the holidays gay by giving a Christmas soiree; JANET GAYNOR shopping like mad with her boy friend, DR. F. S. VEBLEN, and her mother, GEORGE BRENT off for Palm Springs, leaving GARBO disconsolate; WALTER LANG, W. K. director, taken suddenly ill, trying his best to get well enough to spend Christmas with his mother in Memphis; PAT O'BRIEN who has been sick for two weeks, back at the Warner Studio with his old happy smile; LILIAN HARVEY lamenting her Christmas will be sad unless she finds her four months old Persian kitten, "Punkin," who has strayed away; BEBE and BEN LYON return home Christmas eve; WINFIELD SHEEHAN wires he'll be home Monday to eat Christmas dinner; RUBY and BEN THROOP, she was formerly Ruby de Remer, to spend Christmas with RITA KAUFMAN; RITA entertaining with a dinner of eight at the Ambassador, in honor of Mary Ellis. In the party CEDRIC HARDWICKE, HOWARD HUGHES, EDMUND LOWE, MARIAN MARSH and REGINALD BERKELEY. That's all today.

FROM HOME AND ABROAD ON STAGES

SHIRLEY TEMPLE AT MET; WESTERNS IN COMEBACK

Goes Musical

SHIRLEY WINS AS FLIERS' MASCOT

By JOYCE DANA

This is the season of Santa Claus, sentiment and song, and all three are delightfully represented in "Bright Eyes," which brings Shirley Temple to her newest star role on the screen at the Metropolitan.

Old Santa does handsomely by himself and the baby idol of the films; the sentiment is wholesome and the song is a little affair called "On the Good Ship Lollipop," which Shirley sings with her usual and charming nonchalance to the accompaniment of an adoring male chorus, headed by Jimmy Dunn.

The glory in "Bright Eyes" is shared by a group of transcontinental fliers, who adopt Shirley as their mascot, after her daddy has "cracked up," and her mother has gone to work as a maid in the home of the wealthy but poisonous J. Wellington Smythes, nee Smiths.

* * *

Through it all, little Miss Temple lives up to her adorable-ness. Charles Sellon is a grand old grouch, and Jane Withers has the grandest time of all being the horrid little girl.

On the stage, "Yuletide Oddities," with specialties by John Curtis, Mann, Robinson and Martin, Hal Sherman and Beth Miller and the Elida Ballet is a tuneful and top-notch presentation, which features Santa's Workshop and a toy shop to round out the holiday bill.

Dix Stars

SCREEN PACKS OLD WESTERN THRILLS

By MARTIN HANNON

Zane Grey's "West of the Pecos," is on the screen of the Keith Boston this week, starring the popular and likeable Richard Dix.

Colonel Lambeth and his motherless daughter, Terrill, are ruined by the Civil War. Accompanied by two faithful darky servants, Jonah and Maurice, they set out for the West. But in San Antonio the pretty Terrill is accosted by a pair of western gay blades, who are only beaten off when the indignant Maurice comes to the rescue with assorted kicks and bites.

Realizing that her sex will be only a hindrance Terrill cuts her hair and dons a boy's costume. In this guise she meets the celebrated Pecos Smith, backing out of a cantina and holding at bay an ugly assortment of toughs and bad-men.

From this inauspicious beginning, love apparently burgeons. Although she continues to play the part of a boy, in rescuing her from drowning Pecos discovers that Terrill is a girl.

Richard Dix is as natural and likeable as ever, and Martha Sleeper is appealing and attractive as Terrill. Unhappily the story even in its best moments, is never very convincing which is apt to happen in any story in which a girl masquerades as a boy.

Ranny Weeks and the Lee Gall Ensemble head a sparkling vaudeville bill, with members of the Ensemble offering some excellent dancing.

Erwin in Comedy at Orpheum

It isn't often that a college football coach can obtain a complete backfield in the juvenile court; but that's what happens in "The Band Plays On," light and amusing gridiron comedy featured at Loew's Orpheum this week.

Stuart Erwin as Stuffy Wilson, Robert Young as Tony Ferrara, and their two pals, Mike O'Brien and Rosy Rosenberg, are the tough little mugs who land in the juvenile court, where a wise and kindly magistrate paroles them in the custody of "Howdy" Hardy, head coach at Pacific University. Under Howdy's coaching, the four boys eventually become Pacific's famous Four Bombers.

Lou Walter's Night Club Revue heads the amusing vaudeville show at the Loew house this week, presenting Flo Nickerson as mistress of ceremonies. John and Elizabeth offer some suave and graceful ballroom dancing, while Harry La Toy, self-styled "World's Worst Juggler," presents some clever stunts. Wade and Wade, the Harlem Hot Spots, are as lively a pair of little colored artists as can be found, and their dinnity paced dancing was received with great enthusiasm. The Corbett Dancers presented a versatile routine ranging from ballet numbers, through fan waltzes to a striking Bolero. Patricia Davis and Ruth Reed were particularly good.

Betty Alden on 'Beacon Hill'

Miss Rue Elizabeth French Announces Betrothal

By Betty Alden

THE "ZERO CORNER" is swarming with activity and breathless excitement these days with the annual Junior League play only a few days from the footlights and so many out-of-town members returning to their old haunts for the holidays . . . A rousing welcome greeted the former Anne Clifford, now Mrs. John Otis Peat, Jr., an officer of the League, when she dropped in to renew her Boston friendships . . . The Posts are here from their love nest in Morristown, New Jersey, to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker Clifford on Beacon Hill . . .

There will be far greater fluster today when the news leaks out at the League that Mr. and Mrs. Hollis French of Mount Vernon street are announcing the engagement of Miss Rue Elizabeth French, who is the executive secretary of the Junior League, to Alden Frick Megrew, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Megrew of Hinckley road, Brookline . . .

* * *

Winsor Graduate

MISS FRENCH IS a graduate of the Winsor School and of Vassar College with the class of 1933 . . . She is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club . . .

Mr. Megrew was graduated from Harvard in 1932 . . . His clubs include the Hasty Pudding, Harvard Mountaineering, the Travelers and the Harvard Club . . . He is head of the art department at Lawrence College in Appleton, Wisconsin . . .

The Bennington College debs are returning for their long vacations eager for the good times which await them . . . Ann Meserve has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Meserve, at their Chestnut Hill home . . . where plans for her presentation party at The Country Club early in January are absorbing the attention of the whole family . . .

MRS. J. O. POST, JR.

* * *

Many to Spend Holiday on North Shore

AS SOON AS THE HOLLY BERRIES begin to drop, Lucy Lee of Wellesley and Connie Wigglesworth of Cambridge will hurry off to Mexico for several weeks of intensive art study under the guidance of Professor and Mrs. Hirsch of the art department at Bennington . . .

The Yule Log will be lighted in many a large hearth in Hamilton and Ipswich this evening to mark the opening of country estates of numbers of Bostonians for the holidays . . . and on Monday evening while the singing groups wend their way over Beacon Hill, the doors will swing wide with welcome at the Lime street home of Dr. and Mrs. L. R. G. Crandon, who will be at home to their friends from seven until midnight . . .

Seats on planes from here to Washington are selling at such a premium for December 29 when Boston friends of Barbara Cushing will wing their way to the Capital for the dance at the White House that chaperones may have to take the train and meet their charges as they hop onto Washington soil . . . Peggy Hardwick and Louise Harding, who have been fluttering about the Junior League helping with the preparations for the play, will change their address to Washington for that evening to join the festivities at the White House . . .

* * *

Regular Subscribers at Symphony

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON at the Symphony concert society's many music lovers received with sighs of regret and sympathy the announcement that Dr. Koussevitsky was confined at home with a cold and unable to officiate with his orchestra . . . last week's tour of the orchestra in the West worked havoc with its members and few in the audience guessed that it was with difficulty that Richard Burgin, the concert master, directed his men in the exceedingly enjoyable program . . . He, too, is feeling the effects of the absence from Boston . . .

The audience was filled with the regular subscribers, who warmly welcomed the symphony back to its home . . . Mrs. Horace Soule, who is soon to leave for Chicago for the wedding of her son to Barbara Wendell, was in her accustomed seat, as were Mrs. Bartlett Harwood, Mrs. Walter Atherton, Mrs. Edward J. Sampson, Mrs. John Cunningham and Mrs. William O. Taylor . . . One of the community's most devoted followers of the arts, Mrs. Gaston Smith, was also at the concert . . . Mrs. Smith is a lecturer on art at the Museum School . . .

Margaret Tyng Honored at Luncheon

YESTERDAY'S GUEST became today's hostess as Miss Margaret Tyng received at the luncheon given in her honor by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Griswold Tyng, at the Loring-Greenough clubhouse in Jamaica Plain, this afternoon. Among Miss Tyng's guests was Miss Elizabeth Downs, a classmate at Smith College, who was her hostess at luncheon yesterday.

Miss Tyng's gown of Christmasy green, set off with a nosegay of sweetheart roses, struck an appropriate seasonal note. Mrs. Tyng, the debutante's mother, wore sheer black georgette with silver trimmings.

Among the debutantes who attended the luncheon were Miss Rita Faunce, Miss Patricia Pierce, Miss Dora Foss, Miss Jane Kelley, Miss Ruth Edmands, Miss Mary Hastings and Miss Sally Blackman.

Catholic Charities Benefit From Annual Play

Nicholas Club Event Draws Crowd to Brookline

HATS OFF TO THE GENEROUS spirited group. The Nicholas Club of Brookline, whose contribution to charity included such a delightful evening of fun and entertainment as was enjoyed at the annual play, "Her Husband's Wife" and dansant at the Longwood Cricket Club.

A large sum of money for The Holy Ghost Hospital and the Home for Destitute Catholic Children was the reward, with the audience being privileged to name the charities.

Looking around we noticed Ellen Bottomley in an alluring deep blue gown; Katherine Donnelly wearing American beauty velvet relieved by silver trimmings; Katherine Walsh . . . Cathy, her usual sparkling self in green taffeta with rhinestone trimming and shoulder straps . . . her very envied escort was Frank Foley of Harvard; Kathleen Moran, dark-eyed and beautiful in green velvet of simple cut; Helen Foley in a beaded gown of white; and Frances Shea escorted by Richard Wright of Harvard, in a striking frock of black chiffon with lipstick touches.

* * *

Tulip Creation

Ann and Cappy Ryan attended, Ann in flattering ivory satin and Cappy in crisp blue taffeta; Helen Clark — a very charming girl—looked delightfully naive in a black tulip creation with aqua-marine accents — Helen is the daughter of Mrs. Louis J. Clark of Chestnut Hill and sister of Miriam Clark, the leading lady of the play.

Mary Dwyer, glancing shyly at John Meagher, of Worcester, her escort for the evening looked very fragile in silver lace of sheerest pattern; Jean Kiley, among last season's crop of debs, showed her sophistication by selecting a shirt waist tailleur of gold lame, and Martha Brennan, this year's debutante wearing heavy corded white silk, with just the right amount of indifference. Betty Fitzpatrick and her fiance, Robert O'Neill, beamed on each other—we understand the wedding day is not far off—Betty modelled the new robe-de-style in gray taffeta.

Mr. Forest Von Brecht brought a large party of friends. Miriam Clark, the evening's leading lady, was lovely in turquoise blue jacket gown, with tiny buttons in the back and a rhinestone belt — with Thomas Nelligan. That popular squire. James E. Mutre of Harvard—was very attentive to Virginia Foley, who wore black velvet with golden mesh work.

* * *

VERY ATTRACTIVE was Edith Dooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Dooley of Jamaica Plain, in powder blue moire in sparkling silver clasp . . . her swain refused his name; Sally Fitzpatrick, in silver and black ensemble, relieved with a brilliant red sash. A party of young people from Jamaica Plain, attended including the Misses Ann and Mary Holland, Ann in a bewitching robe de style of pink, with silver etched trimmings . . . Mary, in a combination of aqua marine blue and jet black; and Eleanor Brodrick very attractive in printed pink satin.

Miss Marnie Kathaling of Chicago, came on especially for the play and was escorted by Kenneth Hayes . . . she was most becoming in her blue blended gown with silver epaulets. Escorts of some of the lovely ladies were Frank Merrick, John Vagel, Edward Merrick, Joseph McCarthy, Louis F. V. Mercier and William Fallon.

Annual Dance

THE ANNUAL CHRISTMAS DANCE of the Regis College Alumnae, sponsored this year by the classes of '31 and '32, will be held on Friday evening of next week, in the Empire Ballroom of the Hotel Vendome. Miss Alice Griffin of Newton, has been appointed general chairman assisted by Miss Frances LeBassiere of Weymouth, who is directing the activities of the class of '32. The committee includes the Misses Alice Dineen of Lawrence, Margaret Morrissey, Mary Murphy, Frances Warren, Virginia Horgan, Helen Halloran, Mary McBride, Geraldine Nealon, and Virginia Horgan of Boston, members of the class of '31. Miss Doris White of Belmont, Frances Bergen of Worcester, Ruth Douglas of Lowell, Claire Connolly, of Newton, Elisabeth Hennessey, of Brookline, Margaret Reilly, Anne Panne, Ruth Burke, Josephine Mahoney and Catherine Landry.

Alumnae of Regis College Plans Annual Play

Alumnae Will Hold Dance

AFTER Christmas social interest centers around the holiday season dance of the Boston Academy of Notre Dame Alumnae, to be held in the beautiful setting of the Brunswick Casino, on Thursday, December 27. Miss Louise Maguire as chairman announces the usher list as follows: Mr. Theodore Drury, head usher, Mr. John Purcell, Mr. Melvin Acelton, Jr., Mr. Alfred Turner, Mr. Alphonse Kalian and Mr. Howard Lannon.

BELLS RING FOR DOROTHY HARRIS

THE MARRIAGE OF Miss Dorothy Harris to Mr. Abbot Stevens was solemnized in Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel on Newbury street late this afternoon by two clergymen, both brothers-in-law of the bride.

The Rev. David Kemble Montgomery, rector of Emmanuel Church in West Roxbury, who married Virginia Harris, sister of today's bride, and the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, bishop of Massachusetts, whose wife Barbara Harris, another sister, both officiated at the ceremony.

Ivory Velvet

The bride who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harris of 161 Lee street, Brookline, was escorted to the altar by her father. Her gown was of ivory velvet with a tulle veil caught to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

Miss Emilie Sargent, harmoniously gowned in pink and blue, was Miss Harris' only attendant. Dr. Horatio Rogers of 249 Dudley road in Newton Center stood beside the bridegroom at the altar.

The guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brother, Jose C. Harris, Mr. Alexander Wheeler of 30 Marlborough street, J. R. Abbott of Cambridge and Mr. George E. Abbot of Chestnut Hill.

Harvard Grad

The bride is a member of the Junior League and attended the Masters School at Dobbs Ferry. Mr. Stevens, who is the son of Mrs. Samuel D. Stevens of North Andover, attended Phillips Andover and was graduated from Harvard in 1911. He is a member of the Harvard, Union and Owl Clubs.

ART DRAWS MANY TO HOME OF LEAGUE

THE SPIRIT OF gaiety which for many of us personifies Christmas, is holding away at the Junior League Gallery. This small but intimate room seems the perfect setting for countless joyful children.

The works in oil, water color and terra cotta on the walls are by that distinguished artist Nura, who is holding her first one-girl show in Boston, sponsored by the Junior League. Many artists who create for children appeal only to adults, but Nura has found the secret which underlies all great art and has embodied it with subtle understanding in her "Dream Children."

Among the recent visitors who have stopped in to take a fleeting glance at the exhibition and come out the proud owner of one or more copies of the two illustrated books, "Buttermilk Tree" and "Stories" are Mrs. Carl Van Ness, art director of the Beaver Country Day School; Mrs. Francis B. Crowninshield, Mrs. S. V. P. Crosby, Mrs. Reginald Smithwick, Mrs. C. Adrian Rubel, whose three young children will enjoy a hand colored lithograph as well as the books, Mrs. Paul J. Sachs, Mrs. Wallace E. Card and Mrs. H. Nelson Conant.

The show which was previously announced as closing December 22 has been held over by popular request and will continue through December 29. The art gallery at the Junior League has been the scene of several interesting art exhibits since the fall and winter social season opened, and each has attracted a large number of the smart set. Teas have marked the openings of several of the exhibits.

DEB DANCE NEW YEAR PARTY PLANNED

MISS POLLY PEABODY, who is well known to Boston society, will be formally presented at a dinner dance given by her mother, Mrs. Henry Grew Crosby on January 2, in the Roof Restaurant of the Hotel Delmonico in New York city.

Miss Peabody spent much time abroad this summer studying in France, Germany and Switzerland. On arriving in this country late this fall she visited her grandparents, Colonel and Mrs. J. C. R. Peabody of Hamilton, Mass., and was extensively entertained by her many Boston relatives and friends.

The winter address of Mrs. Crosby and Miss Peabody is the Hotel Delmonico in New York city.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. ABBOTT STEVENS of North Andover are enjoying the season at Hot Springs, Va.

MR. R. K. W. HOOD is making a short visit to Newport, R. I., where he is staying at the Viking Hotel.

DR. KINSOLVING'S TEXT

That Passes Man's Understanding

By ARTHUR LEE KINSOLVING
(Rector of Trinity Church)

As Christmas bulges from the skies to break upon this old world anew with its glad tidings of great joy, I ponder the lives and needs and hopes of you who happen to be readers of this column, and whom I may call my friends.

Within me is some insupportable tenderness that prompts me to want to give some word that would mean much to you, and bring you the peace that passes man's understanding. But for most of us limited mortals expression comes hard, and what we feel far exceeds what we can imprison into words.

For Christmas transcends our human giving. It is the gift of the love of God.

I give you then the words of one of the great Christians of our century, Geoffrey A. Studdert-Kennedy, the chaplain whom the soldiers affectionately called "Woodbine Willie." He was a pioneer and prophet to that ever-growing company of persons who, in the name of Christ, are pledged to struggle for more actual good will upon earth.

He wore out his body in incessant struggle against smug inhumanity in economic relations, and national pride and greed that issues threats of war. And the heavenly vision before his eyes was of the Christlike God who intends men to be brothers, and intends the world to be a home.

On a Christmas when he worshipped the wonder of this holy season, even as you and I, he thus set down in poetry the reasons for his gratitude.

Because in tender majesty,
Thou cam'st to earth, nor stayed till we
Poor sinners stumbled up to Thee,
I thank my God.

Because the Saviour of us all
Lay with the cattle in their stall,
Because the Great comes to the small,
I thank my God.

Because upon a Mother's breast,
The Lord of Life was laid to rest,
And was of Babes the loveliest,
I thank my God.

Because the Eternal Infinite,
Was once that naked little mite,
Because, O Love, of Christmas night,
I thank my God.

'QUICK TRICKS' AND 'STOCKING STUFFERS' MARK LAST LAP ON GIFT LIST

Given in Marriage

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge insists that her father, deeply affected by the memento of his broken romance, read the message from her mother—alone!

CHAPTER 224

MY FATHER looked at me with alert attention as I asked to look again at the japanned box left by my mother, in which he had just found the sapphire ring, which he was interpreting as a message of forgiveness from her.

I looked the cavity over carefully, finding nothing the first time, but on second inspection I found, fastened to the lining, a tiny flat bag fashioned of the same silk that formed the lining of box and cavity. It was so skillfully attached to the lining that no cursory inspection would have discovered it.

I ran my fingers over the tiny bag and heard the unmistakable faint rustle of paper. With tingling nerves I looked up at my father.

"Let me have your penknife!" I said.

Without a word he handed me his penknife, but I felt as if I could hear his heart beat as I carefully severed the stitches that held the tiny bag to the lining, then slit open the bag itself. From it I drew an envelope of the thinnest possible texture, crammed with paper closely written, the characters showing through the envelope.

"For Charlie, if he ever finds this," it read.

"Charlie!"

A TRAGIC ROMANCE

The diminutive name, as applied to my father, startled me almost into an exclamation. Always I have thought of my father as Charles Spencer. Indeed, I never have heard him addressed except as "Mr. Spencer," or as "Chief"—the affectionate yet deferential salutation given him by the men and women working under him, when he was a high official in the diplomatic secret service of our country.

My recollections of my mother, also are of a woman sweet, angelic, but possessing a dignity which seemed to forbid her either using a diminutive or pet name, or being addressed by one. She always had called me Margaret, although in tender moments she used to put her arms around me and whisper, "Mother's only comfort."

The superscription on this envelope, however, revealed a side to my mother's nature that I had never known. In those old dead days which had ended in tragedy, there patently had been laughter and lightness—the playfulness of happily married lovers.

"Charlie!"

It was not my voice that spoke the name, but my father's, and in his tones, there was a delighted wonder that brought quick tears to my eyes.

"I did not hear that name for months before I—went away," he said, and I visioned something of the coldness, the suspicion, the bitterness of those last months of his life with my mother, factors which I suspected had much to do with the final tragedy of his leaving her.

"Will you do something for me, father?" I asked, and he looked up at me quickly.

"Anything! You know that, my darling," he answered.

"Take your letter into the living room and read it, all by yourself. I am sure that mother never intended any other eyes, not even mine to see it."

He went into the living room, and I saw him adjusting the light and settling himself in a chair under it. I turned my head away so that not even my eyes should watch him while he read, and for a long time there was only the rustle of paper to be heard.

He must have read the letter two or three times, but finally I heard his footsteps coming back to me, and I wondered what effect this message from the dead would have upon him.

Light Breakfast For Christmas Morning

By Martha Lee

BREAKFAST may be a minus quantity to the youngsters in their excitement on Christmas morning, but to the adults of a family it is a gathering together in a joyful holiday mood. It must not be too hearty a meal, as appetites must be saved for the festive dinner that is to follow, but do give it a gala touch of distinction with this Christmas Bread, full of colorful tasty fruits; it is excellent either as is or toasted. The basis of this bread is a rich yeast dough, which is suitable for making all the fancy hot breads as pecan rolls, cinnamon rolls and fruit rolls. We are also including a recipe for real Scotch Shortbread.

CHRISTMAS BREAD

3 yeast cakes
1 cup milk, scalded and cooled
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
4 cups flour (about)
¼ cup butter
1½ to 2 cups candied fruit (citron, pineapple, cherries, orange or lemon peel)

Crumble the yeast cakes in a bowl. The additional yeast cake takes care of the fruit added.) Add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Add the milk which has been cooled to 80 deg., and well beaten eggs. Add the salt and flour until a dough is formed which can be handled. Add fruit. Knead until smooth. Place in a greased bowl, and let stand until double in bulk, about one hour. Take out on board. Knead and shape into loaves. Place in two small bread pans and let stand until double in bulk again, about ½ hour. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., 1 hour, about one hour.

PECAN ROLLS

To make Pecan Rolls, roll the dough on a floured board into an oblong about ½ inch thick. Brush with softened or melted butter. Spread with brown sugar and chopped pecans. Roll the dough like a jelly roll and cut in ¾ inch slices. Place these in muffin pans which have been well greased and sprinkled with brown sugar, and a few pieces of pecan meat if desired.

REAL SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

3½ cups sifted flour
½ cup rice flour (plain flour if rice is not available)
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup butter

Mix the two flours thoroughly. Rub the sugar into the butter in the center of a bowl. Now gradually draw in a little of the mixed flours, kneading constantly all the time until you have a smooth dough, free from cracks. Divide in two parts, shape each into a round flat cake, pinch the edges with the two thumbs and forefingers placed each to each, with the edge of cake between. Prick top with a fork, lay cakes on a greased tin and bake steadily in a slow oven, 325 deg. F., for about 45 minutes, when cakes should be crisp and golden. Place on a cake rack until cold before storing away in a airtight tin.

Mid-Winter Flowers Bloom on 'Bar Dress'

By Carole Lombard

EVERYTHING that happens in current events has a definite effect on the fashion trend. That is why this year's mode has a special assortment of gowns for "bar" wear.

This sounds very blunt. But it merely means there is a newer, smarter name for cocktail dresses.

The real "bar gown" is a semi-formal type of frock suitable for anything after 6 p. m. except a state occasion. My black and white printed dress is perfect for this sort of thing.

Thanks to the latest decree of fashion in which all fabrics are equally suitable to winter, spring or summer wear, one can wear prints at anytime of year and feel quite within the mode. No woman likes to be told that velvet belongs to winter, and prints belong to spring. So we have finally thwarted those ancient rules and here is an example of my opinion on this subject.

"A high-low" neckline, a normal waist, a knee length tunic and a cluster of inverted pleats in the center of the underskirt make this Banton original a perfect frock for my personal wardrobe. I love the separate jacket with long loose sleeves, which comes to the same line my tunic reaches.

I wear this at random and either carry it over my arm or drape it on the back of a chair when I'm not wearing it. The dress does not demand jewels as its design is a flamboyant collection of flowers, towers and fans.

Inexpensive Bits Found In Shops

By Annice Brink

MOST OF US find it equally as much fun to enjoy before Christmas the gifts we're giving as much as the gifts we receive on Christmas day. When they're stacked high, wrapped in gay papers tied with glittering bows, they are as much a part of the Christmas spirit and decoration as the handsome wreath on the door.

But unfortunately it isn't always possible to close the matter then and there, just like snapping shut the cover of a highly satisfactory novel. No! There is always someone who's been overlooked. Aunt Dorinda, whose fat package from Vermont has just arrived! Charlie, the Man's genial business acquaintance who is always a willing and charming fourth at bridge! And Junior really should have one or two of the junky small things he likes to get, as well as that shining and efficient stream-lined tricycle!

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

A black metal ash tray that flocks ashes and tobacco odors into a bottom compartment, as fast as they are spilled, and has as decoration a lone white composition duck.

A belt and buckle set, wrapped in a cocktail shaker top. The cocktail shaker top clamps on any glass, converting it into ye real thing.

HOME AND ITS MISTRESS

If she sews, she'll love pinking scissors that give the professional touch to her seams.

Newest round salt and pepper shakers come with a handle, to grasp the situation better. Chrome and ritz blue, amethyst, green or amber glass.

An amusingly designed and painted hat rack, for a single hat, with a tiny brush attached. Indispensable for felt or velvet hats.

If she writes many letters and likes doggy prints, she will adore the box of vellum-finished largesize note paper whose cover bears a Spaniel or Terrier print that may be removed for framing.

STOCKING STUFFERS

A set of miniature autos a boy can get together himself. Has five chassis, and five different bodies. Requires no tools.

Jointed cardboard dolls who bring with them material, thread and needles for six dresses, two coats and eight hats.

A taxi-cab set includes four model taxis and one wrecking truck. Make what you can of that one!

When Greek Meets Greek

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

South was a villain to begin with. Nothing pleased him better than to squeeze helpless opponents at the card table and pull unmakable hands out of the fire by his masterful deceptive play. West was a sweet young thing, just out of Vassar, and you might know that she would be the heroine of the little drama. She looked so innocent at the card table that South was sure that no trace of bridge knowledge could be lurking behind those lambent orbs.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♣	Pass
2NT	Pass	3NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Our young heroine opened the Jack of hearts, which dummy was obliged to win with the only side entry to the club suit. South could see only eight tricks at most, unless he could bring in the club suit for which there were only two possibilities. One was the doubleton Queen-Jack in either opponent's hand; the other was a three-two split with one honor in each hand. South decided to play for this since a doubleton Queen-Jack would still be picked up in this method. He decided that since he had no way of telling which player had the three clubs, he would duck the trick to West, as a heart return from East might be dangerous.

A small club was accordingly led from dummy at Trick 2, and when East played low, South blandly dropped the nine-spot. Our sweet young thing smiled graciously and played the deuce. This completely spiked South's guns. Play as he might, he could not now take more than seven tricks.

But note that if West had obligingly won the club nine with the Jack, South, when he next got in, could have overtaken his King with the Ace.

New Water Lily Perfume Is Real Triumph

By the Beauty Editor

IF YOU ARE LOOKING for a perfume with a disturbing comeither kind of fragrance—a delicate, subtly sweet scent that is both feminine and tantalizing—you'll find it all in a new water lily perfume that is like nothing you've seen in years.

Even in a year of light, floral scents—yes, they are with us again and considered very smart, you'll recognize the fresh keenness and indefinable appeal of this new champion. It has the tart scent of moist stems and leaves on a lake in springtime and you can almost touch the water lilies inside.

* * *

It comes in an aristocratic black and gold bottle—as ultrasmart as anything we've seen this season. We are told that not only is its fragrance adaptable to modern young things, but that it is equally ready to lovely ladies who fit lightly from perfume to perfume, year in and year out, without ever attaining the startling effect they try so hard to achieve.

All I can say is that if you are looking for a floral perfume for those great moments in your life when you want to be disturbingly sad very lovely, then choose this one—you can't go wrong.

* * *

And in case you didn't know how excitingly luscious the perfume of the water lily is, let me tell you how highly it was regarded in the ancient days. Tradition has it that Cleopatra, looking around wildly for some new fragrance to enhance her charm, discovered the water lily, and produced a lotion that made her skin smooth and fragrant. It is the first time that we have ever heard of it being made into a modern perfume, however.

Since its fragrance has that haunting outdoors odor, it should be most welcome at this season of the year, when the most we see of trees and the brown earth is an all-too-seldom glimpse of the Public Gardens. After a dab of this perfume, you'll be convinced that water lilies will toil anew.

* * *

To learn where this new water lily perfume is sold telephone the Beauty Editor, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, Boston, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Longer Skirts for Resorts

(Authentic Last Minute Fashions from New York—the Style Center of America.)

By DOROTHY ROE

For the vogue of shorts is waning in favor of the new beach-dresses with divided skirts, and the three-quarter length slacks that look like skirts.

There is a great conspiracy among the resort-wear to create confusion in the minds of the innocent bystanders.

* * *

Shorts, when still worn, appear in longer, fuller versions, reaching to the knee and embellished with pleats.

Slacks, which used to drag the ground if you weren't careful, now stop at the calf, and strive to look like skirts.

Witch Hazel Astringent

Question: Should cold cream ever be used when pores are enlarged and coarse. I have tried dashing cold water on my face after cleansings with cream, and it does seem to help. Do you think this is a good practice? My skin is very oily.—Ann B., Woburn.

Answer: Enlarged pores are a trial and ruin the fine fabric of the skin. Using cold water is one way to combat them. Dash cold water on your face after a cold cream cleansing, and finish by applying witch hazel. This will act as an astringent. Go slow on creamy cosmetics until this condition is overcome and be sure to cut down on fat foods. Eat all the green vegetables and fruits that you can.

Foot Rub

Question: I am a salesgirl in a large store and am on my feet constantly. When I get home at night I am so tired that I can hardly eat supper. The soles of my feet burn terribly. Is a hot foot bath good for this burning condition? E. L. G., Brookline.

Answer: No. When the soles of the feet burn don't bathe them in hot water. Instead, give them a massage with cold cream or mineral oil. While the oil remains on, wrap each foot in a Turkish towel that has been wrung out of ice cold water. Let it stay on until it steams. Dry your feet and apply a good foot powder.' I have a leaflet of exercises for tired feet which I will be glad to let you have if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me.

Inquiries which are not accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes will not receive personal replies. All requests for information regarding the names of beauty articles must include the necessary return postage.

Pretty Ruffles on House Frock

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9218

There's nothing like a new house frock or two to give a fillip to the joys of sweet domesticity! So why not make yourself several of them in this attractive new model? It has a feminine little ruffle to emphasize its youthful neckline—a slim panel down the front of the bodice — and cunning puffed sleeves, slashed to show a glimpse of pretty arms beneath. And it opens like a coat so that it will not only be easy to slip into in a jiffy, but also may be spread out flat to be ironed—a grand idea for the busy housewife! Of course, if you prefer, the sleeves may be made without the slits.

Pattern 9218 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 36-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Turn to our winter fashion book for page after page of smart sister styles for children and grownups, every one of them designed by Marian Martin, our pattern editor. Order your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents but it costs only ten cents when ordered with a pattern. Pattern and book together, twenty-five cents.

Child Needs Quiet After a Hard School Day

By LISA GRENELLE

SCHOOL HAD been awful. Everything had gone wrong. The geography teacher had hurled at Janie the one question she couldn't answer, the history teacher had caught her scribbling and sent her out of the room, in "study" she had spilled the ink, at recess the Black girl had jeered, it was those new shoes again and the others had sided with her. Even Mabel, Janie's best friend, had deserted, walking around the gym hanging on the arm of Alice Mart, as if there weren't anybody else in the world.

"Well," said mother, cheerfully, when Janie got home, "how was school?"

Lunch was awful. Mother began, cheerful and asking questions about school, reminding Janie of a music lesson, inquiring after the deserter, Alice. "You must bring her home to lunch tomorrow, such a sweet girl." Sister complaining—"the way you left the room, Janie! Mother, she ought to be punished for making such a mess in my room, well, our room." And brother jeering, "Somebody threw the ink at Janie, somebody threw the ink at Janie."

* * *

Janie was silent, sullen, rude; finally leaving a still untouched lunch in tears to make for the privacy of the room she shared with sister. Groundless hope, for she was followed by them all, mother asking whether she was sick, sister and brother ranting, saying she had to come in and dress, brother taunting.

And then we wonder why we grow a new crop of neurotics every year.

It was mother's fault, even though she was well-meaning and certainly kinder, at least in theory, than sister or brother. But it was her fault, because she didn't stop the others, because she didn't protect Janie when she so obviously and desperately needed protection. Her fault because she forgot that children are human, that a school day can be every bit as awful, disappointing, discouraging, painful as the worst adult day in the world. Her fault because she provided no privacy for Janie.

Gift Housewife Will Like

YOU CAN DELIGHT the woman who "has everything" by selecting for her an assortment of tiny cans of food which are smart for entertaining—lobster paste, caviar, anchovy for hors d'oeuvre spreads for example, make a most acceptable gift when combined with a tin of the new puff paste crackers. Pack them in a festive red box and put a sprig of mistletoe through a large red satin bow which ties the package.

Oyster Quite Old

THE OYSTER is quite an old fellow. It has been estimated recently by an authority that he has about 30,000,000 years of life history behind him. When you consider, that, at best, civilization has only existed about three thousand years, you can have some respect for the bivalve.

And you do not eat him when he is very young, either. It takes from three to five years to produce a marketable oyster, so that oyster beds have to be treated with care, as they can so easily be denuded of valuable denizens.

Managing a Club Sandwich

By Mrs. Beeckman

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What is the correct way to eat a club sandwich?

2. When going out to drink or dine and dance, when does a young lady check her coat or wrap, and when does she leave it over the back of her chair?

CONSTANT READER.

1. By all means use your knife and fork when you eat a club sandwich or any other kind of three-decker sandwich. Cut off a mouthful at a time, eating this piece before you cut off the next piece.

2. Usually at a formal dance a woman checks her wrap in the coatroom provided. When she goes to a restaurant where there is dancing, whether it's a formal or an informal place, she does as she wishes about checking her wrap. In often now formal evening clothes are an ensemble of dress and wrap that she prefers to wear her wrap to the table. When a woman is dressed informally and is dancing at an informal place, she usually prefers to leave her wrap over the back of the chair.

Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.

"There will come a day when moderns realize that marriage must provide an appropriate background for development of human character, and then there will be no divorces."—Dr. F. N. Schoolman, Chicago psychiatrist.

Elizabeth

By AUNT BELLA

Well, folkies, only a few more minutes remain for finding a present for "him" or for "her." Oh, I know how difficult it is—how tired one gets, doesn't one? Auntie B. thought her puppies never would stop aching last night, after she had tramped, tramped, tramped all day to see what the exclusive shoppies have to offer. Make it a jewelry Christmas, is Auntie's thought. For example at "Ye Seekie and Findie" she saw the "Aluminum Gloves," or "Silent Defenders." Just the thing for the he-man who protects womanhood at any cost. Then there was the "September Morn" bottle cap opener—a bargain at a quarter of a dollar. The nifty slogan rings are new—and something different. Aunt Bella recommends them, as the man said they are from "Gay Paree." The die-cuff link is a knockout and can be unscrewed and used for recreation. And, of course, the genuine handmade wire signature brooch is always good, giving the name of the wearer at a glance.

And if all the times all our leaders have shouted pledges of co-operation were laid end to end—it might refresh our memories.

PACHO IS SHADED IN SIZZLER

By JACK CONWAY

Boxing is on the way back. The "Show of Champions," sponsored by the Goodwin A. C. for the Christmas Basket Fund at the Garden, proved this.

Sammy Fuller, No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' world lightweight title, and Bobby Pacho, Pacific Coast champion, did their part when they exchanged reckless punches for 10 rounds. Fuller won a close decision, and was entitled to it.

Pacho made a grand battle. He stood toe to toe with the rugged Fuller and traded punches.

Fuller's drive in the closing minute of each of the last three rounds won him the unanimous verdict of Referee Jack Sharkey and Judges Frank Montgomery and Jim Carrig.

DEMPSEY ERRS FOR MOMENT

Dempsey at first awarded the decision to Arcelli, but this was a mistake. He later called both boxers to the center of the ring and raised each of their right mitts.

McCoy looked like Mickey Walker of a dozen years ago as he barrazed terrific punches to his opponent's head and body. The fans went in an uproar during this contest. Max Baer was referee.

Buddy Baer, 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighing 241 pounds, proved he can punch when he knocked out Henry Surette of Leominster in a round.

ROSS TO GIVE KLICK FIRST TITLE SHOT

FULLER MUST WAIT UNTIL MARCH FOR BOUT

By Universal Service

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 22—Frankie Klick probably will be the next opponent Barney Ross will face, and plans are about closed for such a bout in Miami, January 28, Art Winch, manager of Ross said today.

The lightweight champion, accompanied by his manager and mother, Mrs. Sarah Rosof, arrived today for a visit.

Negotiations also are on for a fight with Sammy Fuller, of Boston, in March. A return bout with Jimmy McLarnin is scheduled for May in New York, Winch said.

Harvard Beaten

Montreal, Dec. 22—A last-period uprising in the third period gave McGill University icemen a 6-1 win over Harvard here last night. Calloway scored Harvard's only goal in the first period.

Springfield, Dec. 22—Prep school basketball teams are an eastern [illegible] tournament here on mid-March of next year, it was announced today.

MAT RESULTS

St. Louis—Ray Steele, 215, Glendale, Cal., threw Leo Nomo, 215, Seattle, 29:13.

Salem—George Dewette pinned Rosenhouse Hagen in straight falls. Fred Brune won over Joe DeMare when latter was unable to finish due to injury.

THREATEN TEAM SUSPENSION FOR REFUSAL

By International News Service

Detroit, Dec. 22—The National A. A. U. today was drawn into the controversy between the Michigan A. A. U. and representatives of the Hamtramck Ford Motor Co. hockey team and Olympia stadium.

Lloyd L. Griffith, manager of Olympia, has sent a letter, he said, to Avery Brundage, president of the national body, asking him to keep the local body from suspending players of the Hamtramck team from the A. A. U. [illegible] Michaels, hockey team December 22.

Charles Barron, secretary of the A. A. U. here, said he would suspend each player of the Hamtramck team in 1935, unless a 50 per cent levy in the net gate was handed over to the athletic union. An offer of 15 per cent of the gross gate of the game was refused yesterday by George Graves, president of the Michigan A. A. U.

George H. Veatch, president of the local ice team, said the 50 per cent levy was excessive and asserted that his team would play the game in spite of the suspension threat.

Brunswick, Me., Dec. 22 (INS)—A week-end meeting of the Bowdoin College athletic council will decide the fate of football coach Charles Bowser, target of alumni criticism following an unsuccessful gridiron season, it became known today.

A Christmas Sock for Santa

AND A KICK FOR FANS IN FUND PUNCH

By Max Kase

Santa Claus is a versatile guy. He swept into the Garden with boxing gloves last night and swept out with a sock. A big sock, too, with which to distribute more cheer and comfort through the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund.

3 CHAMPS

It was just like boom times in the curled ear industry. All of the old regulars were on hand for what amounted to a reunion. There was even a broadcast, with Sammy Taub being imported from New York to do the airing.

Jack Dempsey, Max Baer and Jack Sharkey, the three greatest turnstile clickers in the history of boxing, were in referee roles and made the night a memorable one.

There was plenty of punch to the festivities. Al McCoy put a kick in his appearance by tilting over Buck Tracey in the first knockout of the evening.

Maxie's kid brother, Buddy Baer, flashed a gaudy purple and gold dressing gown and a gaudier sock. He chilled Henry Surette in the opening number.

It was a short evening but an active one for Henry. He bounced out like a jack-in-the-box at the bell, clipped Buddy on the whiskers and then clipped him again. There was no foot eye of Baer to hit, enough for all the Surettes but a right and then a left paid Henry off.

One of the pew tenants became imbued with the fight fever and started a battle of his own. He trapped two coppers but then was led himself. You just can't win.

GOB SOCKED

Sharkey refereed the Fuller fight and was smacked on the chops when Sammie missed a left swing. But the Squire didn't even tremble at the blow. Just shows what clean living does.

Our vote for bored indifference goes to the customer in a choice seat in the second row on the Causeway street side. He slept through all of the fights and all of the cheering for Dempsey, Sharkey and Baer.

Dempsey received the most cheers of the evening. Baer was the best costumed referee, while Sharkey turned in the neatest bit of officiating. There were honors enough for all.

Three coppers escorted Dempsey to ringside. It looked like a pinch.

LEATHER BLIZZARD

Father Goose and Sports Fable

RAY CASS, WHO IN APPEARANCE resembles the husband of Mother Goose, and who is the foreman of boxing at the Boston Garden, sat grinding his axe [illegible]. Father Goose was angry.

He was furious.

He was consuming with raging internal fires.

Why? Because earlier in the week he had visited New York to scout for fighters. His hotel phone jangled. William [illegible] Colonel Hammond, head stockholder of the New York Garden, at the University Club.

He would!

He did!

Colonel Hammond, the [illegible] promoter, whose skullduggeries are familiar to Boston Garden people, where he has skimmed the cream for years, inquired whether Mr. Cass was open to accept the job as [illegible] manager of the New York plant. The [illegible] was not satisfied with Jimmy Johnston [illegible].

Austen Lake

Father Goose sat tight.

But next morning the New York sport pages blazed with the rumor. And there in bold, black type was a statement by Colonel Hammond, himself, saying:

So, today, Father Goose is hopping mad. Sparks flash from his hazel eyes. There is the rush of escaping steam from his ears. As an honest guy, with a curious value on a spoken confidence, Ray Cass is astounded at Colonel Hammond's double deal.

This is strictly ha-ha to me, who has sat outside the Garden office door waiting for Colonel Hammond to come out as per promise and be interviewed, only to have him slip out the rear door and go slinking off to the airport with the virtuous feeling of having put over a quick trick.

Fighting Maxies' Dream

IT IS ODD THAT IN THE HEIGHT of their earning power in the prize ring industry, the two Maxies, Baer and Rosenbloom, should yearn to quit. Baer plans to retire in 1936, by which time, he tells me, he will have stowed away an untouchable trust fund that will secure his future.

Rosenbloom, still owing $2500 of an old stock market debt, wants two things—a good financial year and a good woman with whom to get married. He says, illogically, he's tired of fighting.

"Whose the girl?" I asked.

"What girl?" asked Maxie.

"Oh, I see . . . I ain't got any particular girl in mind. Girls come easy."

ACCORDING TO THE PARADE'S Christmas custom, the following awards are announced to 1934 sport celebrities:

The Simple Simon rosette for goofiness—To Senator Huey Long for making Louisiana State football a museum of rantatal nonsense with himself as chief buffoon.

The diamond sunburst for free-hand spending—To Tom Yawkey for his quarter of a million outlay for Joe Cronin.

Medal for valor—To Rabbit Maranville for submitting his fractured shin to repeated scraping and agonized treatment, so that, at the age of 42, he might play ball again instead of retiring to some soft sideline job.

Amputating the Umpires

IN REPLY TO MANY letters from boys' club secretaries and school principals, the Red Sox will shortly receive two copies of the American League movie film called "Play Ball," a sequence of major league scenes.

Each American League club will be equipped with two movie projectors, complete with sound attachments, which will be loaned, along with the film, at no cost and for the sake of propaganda.

There they sat, twizzling their ears and growling through their teeth, while Chief Tommy Connolly lectured like a scholarly prison warden.

When the assembled group of magnates watched that scene unwind in New York, they demanded, yea! insisted, that it be amputated lest little schoolboy audiences be frightened and caused to scream in their sleep.

Red Man's Quandary

IN THE HIGH ROCKIES the wild goats are whinnying. In the woods of Oregon fat deer are mickering. And in the streams of the Far West the salmon are flirting their finny tails. But Lone Star Deitz, the mighty hunter, is mooning in Boston, far from his woodsie murmurs and gurgling streams.

Reason is that Deitz, who normally gallops off to the happy hunting grounds at the close of the football season, is heavy with doubt.

Officially he is still Redskin coach. Unofficially he is a free agent, with no strings and no salary.

Hence he waits, eaten with unease, and bound to the white man's civilization until he learns his true position.

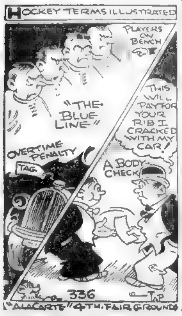
TAP'S TIPS



Cunningham Accepts Bonthron Challenge

MILE KINGS TO MEET JANUARY 5, DOCTOR WON'T LET BONNY QUIT

By Walter Kiley

Glenn Cunningham, world record holder in the mile, has registered his acceptance of Billy Bonthron's challenge to race him in the annual New York Knights of Columbus games on January 5.

"I started training last week for the indoor races," Glenn is quoted as saying. "So far I haven't let myself out because the right foot that I injured last Spring—pulling a muscle—is still a little tender.

"It was taped during the summer, and I didn't run any really fast races in Japan."

The [illegible] record [illegible] are [illegible] Glenn at the [illegible] distance because he happened along when the race provided the best competition.

"We have Bonthron, Luigi Beccali of Italy and Jack Lovelock of Britain, all likely to run a 4:01 mile—and don't forget Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania. Venzke can still run a good mile."

[illegible]

"I fully expect to quit running after the Milwaukee 1500 meter race this summer," states Billy. "That was why I was so anxious to beat Cunningham and make my farewell appearance a favorable one.

"But then came the chance to tour Europe and meet Lovelock, and the idea appealed to me.

On my return home I decided to give up the sport. But my doctor ruled otherwise. My health had suffered from the sudden cessation of strenuous exercise and he warned me that an abrupt reaction to a life of physical ease might have unfortunate results.

So I have a bear by the tail and can't let go. My present plan is to taper off over a three-year span. I will run four or five times this year. In 1936 my program will be further curtailed, and the next year I'll be ready to stow my shoes away for good.

"I would like to take a crack at the Olympic 1500 meters. But a business man's life doesn't lend itself to Olympic conditioning. Therefore I have renounced any idea of running at Berlin."

BRITISH PILOT ALL WRONG, IT SEEMS

By Bill Corum

New York, Dec. 22—The latest lingering echo of the daffy America's Cup races held off Newport last summer were heard Wednesday evening when the race committee handed in its report to the New York Yacht Club. The season, like the race itself, ended with protest flags still flying. It seems that Skipper Sopwith of the English challenger, Endeavour, was wrong all along.

der to graduate from the ranks of the [illegible] the six furlongs of the first race here on Monday afternoon.

HEROTHER, BEFITTING, ROYAL DUCHESS

FIRST RACE—[illegible] two-year-olds [illegible] furlongs.

[illegible]

HEROTHER whirled a half in :47 1-5 for his final. That sort of running should result in bracket for the son of Herodot. BEFITTING was hours the best when she finished fourth behind Doubleton [illegible] ROYAL DUCHESS figures [illegible] long enough to save the [illegible] end.

IMPROMPTU, LIBERTY OAK, SWIMALONG

SECOND RACE—Purse [illegible] claiming [illegible]

[illegible] 10 Baby Chard 1 7 Me[illegible]

IMPROMPTU was in front of Herowin and Moane Keala for a bit over a half-mile last time. The Winfrey color bearer is dropping down a long ways in this affair. LIBERTY OAK drubbed Fancy Light and other cheap ones in fast time in his last trip to the barrier. SWIMALONG is a long shot possibility.

UNCLE BILLY, MINNA, CIVIL WAR

THIRD RACE—Purse $600, claiming [illegible]

[illegible] 2 Money [illegible] x106 Parvin 20-1

UNCLE BILLY figures to be along in time to head this [illegible]. With better racing luck, he would have drubbed Frauler the other day. MINNA, a faint hearted trick, has all the best of the weights and should not be worse than second.

AL NEIMAN, DEEDIE, CONACHER

1 Al Neiman	x111	Parvin	1-1
6 Deedie	111	R. Watson	4-1
7 Conacher	116	Arcaro	8-1
5 [illegible]	[illegible]	Lindberg	8-1
2 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	10-1
3 [illegible]	[illegible]	Fallon	15-1
4 [illegible]	[illegible]	Watson	20-1

AL NEIMAN, a clever winner at Houston, breezed a mile in 1:43 for this race. That work shows that he has all of his speed. DEEDIE was a red hot favorite last time, but turned in a dismal performance. She can do lots better. CONACHER, a cheap trick, is as fit as hands can make him.

STONE MARTIN, WISE ADVOCATE, FAIRLY WILD

FIFTH RACE—Purse $500, claiming three-year-olds and up, one and one-six[teenth] miles.

2 Stone Martin	115	[illegible]	4-1
4 Wise Advocate	115	[illegible]	8-1
5 Fairly Wild	112	Horn	4-1
9 Chatterdon	x109	[illegible]	4-1
11 Herowin	114	R. Watson	8-1
7 [illegible]	111	Yowel	2-1

1 [illegible] George	108	[illegible]	[illegible]
8 [illegible] Power	x110	Lynch	[illegible]
7 [illegible]	108	Wright	[illegible]
6 [illegible]	112	Pascuma	20-1

It was a crime for STONE MARTIN to have been beaten last time. Jockey Dupre had him in more pockets than are on a pool table. WISE ADVOCATE ran a bangup race after breaking slowly the other day. FAIRLY WILD figures close up.

LONG BIT, FLAG WAVE, TIEMPO

2 Long Bit	x106	Bohn	3-1
[illegible] Flag Wave	114	Mansfield	[illegible]
[illegible] Tiempo	111	Wright	6-1
[illegible]	111	Madd[illegible]	6-1
6 [illegible]	108	Merritt	10-1
4 Dominant Miss	111	Leitzenberger	[illegible]
9 Aileen C.	114	Critchfield	15-1
1 Wise Revue	x100	Peden	10-1
[illegible]	108	South	20-1

LONG BIT is dropping down among his own kind. Those recent efforts may be tossed into the ash can. FLAG WAVE, a clever sort at Churchill Downs, figures to offer the contention. TIEMPO gets the next best figure on his Maryland form.

MARCASITE, SOUND MONEY, BOOCAP

SEVENTH RACE—Purse $500, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one mile and one-eighth.

7 Marcasite	109	Merritt	5-1
2 Sound Money	x105	Lindberg	5-1
6 Boocap	x103	Bohn	2-1
4 Pancader	x111	Lynch	5-1
5 Fat Rock	x111	Peden	6-1
3 My Kentucky	x108	Parvin	6-1
1 Fair Mole	x111	Fallon	15-1

Weather clear; track fast.

I'm going down in the brine basin for MARCASITE in this affair. Those recent efforts go for the end book.

Twenty Grand Comes Back For Hundred Grand Run

EQUIPOISE BOWS OUT IN 'CAP CLASSIC AT SANTA ANITA

By Damon Runyon

(Copyright, 1934, By Universal Service)

Miami Fla., Dec. 22—Many horse racing men in these parts are inclined to give the once mighty Twenty Grand more than an outside chance to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in February.

The attempted comeback of the great old champion is being watched with deep interest down here. It is regarded as the most exciting turf event of many years.

Before Twenty Grand, said to have been a failure in the stud, was shipped to Southern California, he was very thoroughly tried out in Kentucky. The writer is informed that the horse worked a very satisfactory mile in 1:39 and a fraction, and galloped perfectly sound.

He responded to training in a manner that gratified his handlers. Now the horsemen in these parts believe that the old star of the Greentree barn will prove a decided factor in the California race.

CAVALCADE TRAINING

Cavalcade has not yet been shipped from Columbia, South Carolina where he is in training. Cavalcade was put out of racing temporarily by a quarter crack, an injury that is rapidly healing according to reports from Columbia.

It seems fairly certain that the 1934 three-year-old champion will go to California. Equipoise is another certainty. It will probably be Equipoise's last race, as well as his final bid for first place among the money-winners of America.

The consensus of opinion hereabouts is that if Cavalcade fully recovers, the Santa Anita race is at his mercy, wet or dry, and especially wet.

TIME SUPPLY READY

It is possible that a product of Miami winter racing may have something to say about the big race. This is Time Supply, owned by Mrs. F. J. Carreaud of Canada, whose silks have been seen on the Miami tracks every winter for several years past.

Time Supply popped out here last year as a two-year-old, and was generally conceded to be the best of the juniors in Miami. He has since won two $25,000 stakes, the last at Bay Meadows recently, when he beat Top Row, Fleam, Riskulus and others.

Like fighters, it is seldom that a horse in retirement as long as Twenty Grand makes a successful comeback as a racer. There have been some instances of success, to be sure, but the exceptions prove the rule.

It would be an intensely romantic incident of sport if Twenty Grand should win the Santa Anita Handicap, but the chances are against it. None the less a lot of fairly smart horsemen are going to have a few tickets on the great old son of St. Germans and Bonus when, and if, he goes to the post.

He will be the sentimental favorite, anyway, even while the board is showing that 7 to 10 Cavalcade.

U. S. Golf Association 40 Years Old Today

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS HELPED ORGANIZE

It was on December 22, 1894, that representatives of five clubs, four in the East and one in the Midwest, organized the United States Golf Association. Out of that meeting of 40 years ago has grown the powerful body which today boasts more than 850 member clubs and directs the activities of millions of golfers.

Directly leading to the formation of the U. S. G. A. was the fact that earlier in 1894 both the St. Andrews Club of Yonkers, N. Y. (later moved to Mount Hope, N. Y.), and the Newport, R. I., Golf Club held tournaments which they labelled national championships. W. L. Lawrence won one with a medal score of 188 for 36 holes; L. B. Stoddard took the other, a match play affair, by defeating C. B. MacDonald, one up.

Considerable criticism followed and H. O. Tallmadge of St. Andrews invited the Shinnecock Hills Club of Southampton, N. Y., The Country Club of Brookline, Mass., and the Chicago Golf Club to join with St. Andrews and Newport in the formation of an organization to promote the game, conduct championships and draw up and enforce a set of rules. The U. S. G. A. was the result.

Curtis and Sears Hub Delegates

The organization meeting was held on December 22 of that year with representatives from all five clubs attending—Tallmadge and John Reid of St. Andrew's, General T. H. Barber and S. L. Parish of Shinecock, Laurence Curtis and P. S. Sears of Brookline, C. B. MacDonald and Arthur Ryerson of Chicago, and Theodore A. Havemeyer of Newport. The second Newport representative, Winthrop Rutherford, found it impossible to attend.

After electing officers—Havemeyer was elected president, defeating Reid, five votes to four—the delegates adopted the following declaration or purposes:

1—To promote the interests of the game of golf.

2—To establish and enforce uniformity of the rules of the game by creating a representative authority.

3—Its executive committee to be a court of reference as a final authority in matters of controversy.

4—To establish as far as possible a uniform system of handicapping.

5—To decide on what "links" the amateur and open championships shall be played.

RED DEVILS CLASH WITH W. E. HOUSE

SEVERAL FINE COURT GAMES TONIGHT

By Bob Ahearn

Although the Trojans are idle over the weekend with the exception of an exhibition fray at Whitinsville tonight, there are a large number of amateur and semi-pro basketball games booked.

Today's list includes Chelsea Red Devils at West End House, Beverly Aces at West End Jayvees, Maiden City Club at Boston Y. M. H. A. Hagan Club at Pere Marquette, Brennan Club and Y. M. H. A. Jewels at Roxbury, Irwin Club at McCarthy Club and Bunker Hill A. C. at Al Smith Club's courts, Somerville.

The brilliant Philadelphia Hebrews engage the Trojans in an American League game at the Arena next Thursday.

Playing their second home game, the Pere Marquette quintet will seek another win tonight when they entertain the Hagan five. The game will be played at the South Boston High gym. John Crowley, lanky pivot performer, has been added to the Peres lineup by Manager Joe Kelly.

A large crowd is expected at the West End House gym when the Red Devils take on the West End varsity. In a prelim, the Jayvees engage the Beverly Aces. Proceeds of the twin bill will go to the Christmas Basket Fund.

DETROIT BOYS ON WAR PATH

SAY THEY WILL END B'S STREAK

By Bill Grimes

Having lost two games to the Bruins this season, Detroit Red Wings will apply the pressure tonight at the Boston Garden to break the home winning streak of the Patricians.

Manager Jack Adams and his Wings arrived here this morning and predicted they would stop the Bruins right in their tracks. The Wings are battling the Bruins for second place and are confident that they will reduce the three-point gap tonight.

In the event that Kaminsky [illegible] unable to play, Frank Jerwa [illegible] have an opportunity to show local fans that he is deserving of remaining with the Bruins.

Frank scored 15 goals [illegible] credited with 5 assists [illegible] games, which was responsible for his promotion to the varsity.

He was not used against Rangers and will receive a real [illegible] come from the Bruin followers [illegible] night if he gets a chance to strut his stuff.

The Bruins have picked up f[illegible] points this season at the expense of the Wings. They won in Detroit in the second game of the season, 4 to 1, and then gained a 1 to 0 decision at the Garden a month ago.

Prophet "Snooks" Takes Deep Bow

OLYMPICS MUST TURN ON HEAT AT ARENA

By Bill Grimes

Now that Boston College holds an overtime decision over Dartmouth, the Olympic Club cannot afford to spare the whip tonight. If the Indians of the North turn on the European tourists it would not look so good for Walter Brown's All-Star aggregation.

Any of you fans who are desirous of getting advance information on hockey games should get in touch with Coach John "Snooks" Kelly, of the Eagles.

Weeks ago, Coach Kelly predicted that Boston College would warm up by beating Northeastern and Brown and would then take Dartmouth...Manager Jack Adams and his Red Wings pulled into town this morning and are all set to break the Bruins' home winning streak...Leo "Jackson Sq." Howley, brother of Howling Dan, was at the station to meet the Detroiters and took Smiling Jack and Jim Norris down to Nantasket to visit Mike Burns...The Red Wings have lost two out of two to the Bruins this season and tonight's affair will be anything but a pink tea affair.

WALSH HAS FUN BEATING GREEN

Joe Walsh, the B. C. defense man, got a great kick out of beating Dartmouth...During his prep school days at Kent's Hill, Joe never had the pleasure of beating Hebron Academy, due to the prowess of Fitzpatrick, Allen and Harris of the present Big Green sextet.

Billy Boucher, brother of the famous "Buck," is coaching the Lafountaine Club of Montreal...Basketball, pro and amateur, will benefit from the Holy Cross-Notre Dame game at the Arena.

Cecil Hart, former Les Canadiens' manager, who is coaching the Verdun amateur club in Montreal, has a youngster who is attracting considerable attention . . . He is George Brown—no kin to George V.—and is on the Bruins' negotiation list .

BOB JEREMIAH JOINS OLYMPICS

The All-College line of the Olympic Club, Frankie Spain, Ike Powers, two former Dartmouth luminaries, and Art Lane, the ex-Princeton football captain, will be closely watched tonight by Boston College . . . Bob Jeremiah, who toured Europe with Walter Brown's Olympic Club last season, has joined the Chicago Olympics and is now right winging for Billy Boyd's Baltimore Orioles .

ALAMO OPENS XMAS

600 HORSES READY

Six hundred thoroughbreds already are stabled at Alamo Downs for the winter meeting, starting Christmas Day, and 50 more are expected before the inaugural.

Eight races will be presented daily at the Texas track during the holidays and on Saturdays, with seven races the order on all other afternoons. The meeting will close February 2.

In the string of six head R. T. Watts shipped from Texas to Hialeah Park in Miami were Pot Au Brooms, four-year-old chestnut gelding, and Albert D., a black gelding by Blackwood-Gulf Girl. The latter is a candidate for the $15,000 added Florida Derby.

Pot Au Brooms is the iron horse of the outfit. This gelded son of Pot Au Feu and Broomiola forced Ted Clark to a new track record of 1.49 for the mile and an eighth in the $10,000 added Waggoner Handicap at Arlington Downs and lost the decision by an eyelash in the $5000 Houston Handicap.

The new "Sunshine Stadium" and bleacher section which Joseph E. Widener ordered installed at Hialeah are rapidly nearing completion. The open air stadium section will seat 1250. The lower tier will be provided with 600 additional chairs, giving the stadium area a total capacity of 1350. The bleachers will accommodate 700. Hialeah's meeting will open January 17 and close March 9 after 45 racing days.

Eagle Six Nips Green At Arena

THIRD STRAIGHT FOR KELLY'S RAIDERS

The Boston College Eagle flattered high over the Heights today, following the 3-2 victory of the B. C. sextet at the Arena over Dartmouth, a team which holds the intercollegiate ice championship.

The victory was the third straight for the Eagle skaters.

Then, after Ray Funchion had snatched the puck on a face off and flipped it into the draperies to knot the count in the third stanza, Joe whacked in a rebound off "Kiddo" Liddell's overtime drive to give the Eagles the edge.

WARNER WOULDN'T TAKE IT FROM HUEY

By Universal Service.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec 22—Glenn S. Warner, famed creator of the Warner system of football, gladly accepted the Louisiana State football coaching job—with reservations—as he brought his Temple University squad through town on its way to the "sugar bowl" intersectional football game with Tulane on Jan. 1.

Warner

Warner admitted he had received no offer to replace "Biff" Jones at L. S. U., but, said he

$100,000 Lottery Seizure

By Universal Service

Los Angeles, Dec. 22—Continuing their drive in various sections of Los Angeles county, district attorney's investigators seized additional lottery sweepstakes tickets based on the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap to be run next February.

More than $100,000 worth of the spurious tickets are now in the hands of authorities. Other seizures are expected at several out-of-state points where the tickets have been shipped.

It was the record boxing crowd for Boston for 1934. It proved that the fans are fight hungry and that they will patronize a first-class show.

The Christmas Basket Fund will receive 12½ per cent of the receipts after deduction of federal and state taxes. This means Christmas dinners for thousands of poor and needy persons.

PACHO TRADES WITH FULLER

Boxing fans love their idols. Sharkey received the greatest ovation he has ever been accorded. Dempsey was still the darling of the crowd, while Baer was greeted in a way fitting for a champion.

It was an even fight going into the eighth round. And so it continued until the last minute of the eighth frame when Fuller cut loose with a terrific rally.

It was the same story in the 10th frame with Fuller's late surge sending him out front by a slight margin.

ROSIE LOOKS LIKE CHAMP

Fuller and Pacho should be signed for a return bout. It will be worth seeing.

Maxie Rosenbloom must have been bitten by a fox. The former world's light heavyweight champion had a bag full of ring tricks which baffled Shucco.

The latter made some stouthearted rallies, but Rosenbloom managed to keep out front. There are few boxers who can beat Maxie when he steps as he did against Shucco.

Tracy moved back against the ropes. He was helpless, and collapsed to the canvas of the ring. Referee Max Baer halted the contest as a towel came flying from McCoy's corner.

DANO GIVEN BIG HAND

Baer followed this with a left hook to the jaw, and Surette went down and was counted out. The right hand uppercut was the wallop that did the real damage. The left hook was merely the finishing smash.

Joe Ricciotti of the North End knocked out Al Vitale of the North End in a round.

Edward C. Foster, president of the National Boxing Association, was the ringside guest of Boxing Commissioners Dan Kelley and Peter Carr.

Two school hockey leagues were ready for busy afternoon sessions today, with the Bay State League opening its season at the Boston Arena, and the Greater Boston League staging its second program, at the Garden.

Both leagues were billed for action at one o'clock this afternoon. The conflict was not likely to affect attendance at either rink, for each league has its own following.

Indeed the Greater Boston group expected a far larger crowd than attended the first games at the Arena last week. Several of this league's stronger teams draw big crowds to the Garden but have few followers at the Arena.

The Garden games offered brisk action, with three of last week's winners favored again. Melrose over Rindge Tech (by a small margin), Arlington over Newton, and Cambridge Latin over Stoneham were the probable results.

Medford, a loser last week, was likely to improve its standing by beating Belmont.

Clark Rides For Cavalry Trio Tonight

Forrester (Big Tim) Clark, top-ranking New England poloist, who is ranked at six goals, will start his 111th Boston indoor league campaign tonight when he rides for the 110th Cavalry against the White Mountain Polo Ranch in the first league competition of the season, at Commonwealth Armory.

As a preliminary to the Class A combat, Battery A will make its debut against the Winchester trio.

Clark, former Harvard captain of polo and crew, as well as a tackle on the eleven, played his first league polo in the season of 1921-3, the year before he entered Harvard.

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (INS)—Injured in a hunting accident two years ago, Charley Gelbert was confident today he will be ready to play shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals next season.

"I know I will be ready to go by March," Gelbert said at the conclusion of a skin grafting operation on his foot. He expects to be walking with the aid of crutches in 10 days.

Joe Casey, old Detroit catcher, [illegible] of "Lefty" [illegible] pitching trouble is mental. Joe was with Baltimore when Moses broke in there, says that the Sox southpaw at first pushed rather than threw the ball, just as he did this past season.

"It took weeks to convince him that his arm wouldn't fall off if he cut loose. That old fear appeared to return last summer. I think he would be as good as ever if somebody could make him throw naturally again," the veteran receiver declared.

Eddie Collins, Sox boss, was placed right in the middle while talking with Irving Burns and Brother Gilbert, discoverer of Babe Ruth, at the Cambridge Legion's Stove League session the other evening.

"Why don't you give your pennant chances a real boost by getting this young fellow to play first base?" asked the Brother, addressing himself to Eddie and pointing to Jack.

"I might be able to answer that question if I could read Rogers Hornsby's mind", replied the Fenway foreman.

"After the fans get a chance to compare the brand of ball played under the stars with that displayed in the afternoon, they'll never return for a second helping of the moonlight variety," is the guess of the ex-Giant and new Phils' shortstop.

CLUB SIX

Many fine amateur teams have represented this city in the past but few carried the potentialities of this year's Olympic Club six.

The clubmen have been handicapped somewhat by lack of sufficient practice but are confident they can repeat their feat of last year when they downed Dartmouth 5 to 3.

Led by Fitzgerald, that noble pin herder of old who topped the heap with strings of 104, 107 and 116, totaling 327, came Hines with 308, Brummer 306, Anderson and Fletcher 301, and Sheingold 300.

While on the subject of the old timers it is pertinent to say how I have been questioned for leaving left Charley Hedge out of my list of real old timers I published a short time ago.

It is needless to explain the omitting of Hedge was not intentional. It is quite likely that I neglected others who were rolling for the head pin away back in the first days of the thin maples.

Well, I have squared that score now by giving him full credit in this column of being as old as he says he is. Furthermore, I want to say Hedge and I have been pals for these many years. Possibly that is why I forgot to give him mention.

BOWLING FAN, Cambridge—The approved alleys in the N. E. B. A. follows: Ebon Manchester, N. H.; New Post Office, Salem; The Wakefield; 20th Century Recreation, Lynn; South Station; Huntington Club; Callahan's in Needham; Norfolk Downs; Roslindale Eagle; New Boston; Shanley's; Hawley Street; 20th Century, North Station; Daylight in Cambridge; Quincy Square; School Street and Commonwealth.

Fred Barron, of Hyde Park, having faith that he can be among the cash bowlers in the final roll-off of the N. E. B. A. Bowlaway contest at the Hawley street alleys on January 12, stopped in there the other afternoon and went on the board with three strings aggregating 363. Barron declares the Bowlaway looks good to him with no entrance fee from bowlers and the fine slice of coin going to the eight high men in the finals.

* * *

J. Travers cut loose in his second string for 144 in the Hood Rubber League at Shanley's, while Shackett, in the same league, posted 128 for a single and a total for 335 . . . As usual, the Lever Brothers League were out in full force at the Huntington Club. Cain led the way with 128 for a total of 323 while Hopkins, Graham and Dunn came through with singles of 120 each . . . Smith was best bowler in the Steamship League with his third string in 130 . . . McDermott of the United Drug at the Fargo alleys was mighty proud after the match, for he rolled a string in 1.4 and a three-string total for 331.

12 LAP TRACK AT SOMERVILLE

The basketball facilities have been A-1 since the new gym was built a few years back. Hockey has been missing entirely and track greatly handicapped by the lack of a practice oval.

The old board track at Dilboy Field rotted away, but the foundation originally was of concrete and on this is being constructed a 12-lap oval to be ready soon. A new hockey rink is being completed at Dilboy Field.

No Privates?

Leading the alumni five will be Herb Tiffany, highest scorer ever to play for an N. U. basketball team. Herb scored 260 points one season, averaging 16 per game. He comes from Fairhaven.

The other four will be Chic Brown, Union City, New Jersey; Buck Rymph, Poughkeepsie, New York; Bill Reffone, New Haven, Conn.; Red Renker, Jamaica Plain.

GALLERY FORGETS YOUNGSTERS AS WALTER PLAYS

By Universal Service

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 22—Walter Hagen on his 42d birthday, one of the greatest and best loved figures in American sport, drew the entire gallery of some 2000 fans as he played his opening round in the Pasadena $4500 open championship.

His 73 — 38 out and 35 in, one over par — set no course record and did not match the 69's that led the field, but to the gallery Hagen meant far more than the sub-par rounds of the pacesetters.

Ralph Guldahl of Los Angeles, 34-35; Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, 35-34, and David Martin of Los Angeles, 36-33, in a card that carried six birdies and four bogies, moved into a four way lead, with Emory Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., whose 69 led the first half of the field Thursday.

Tide Rolls On

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 22 (US)—Alabama's Crimson Tide arrived here today on its trek to the Pacific Coast for Pasadena and the Rose Bowl football game with Stanford on January 1.

Thirty-three players, three full teams and 50 rooters filled a special train which will arrive in Pasadena on Monday morning.

Coach Frank Thomas announced he was well pleased with the condition of his players after they went through a short drill.

They will work out again in Tucson on Sunday and from there will head for Pasadena, where they start heavy work for the Rose Bowl classic.

RAILS FIGHT TO REDUCE EXPENSES

By HUGH F. BRADSHAW

[illegible]

Comment: The chance that rail traffic will improve over the next few weeks is good. But one must take a real optimist to say that it will be sharply upward . . . and not be surprised if the reduction of wage cuts required by the roads reported in this not too distant future . . . The rails are going to have to manufacture their own good news . . . If they do a wage cut, or successful opposition to the pension in the courts, or favorable granting of their increased rates request . . . One or a combination of all will do the trick.

[illegible]

Briefs: In view of comments above on the rails it may be asked why we are so loyal to the group . . . That is easy . . . The bad news is well known, prices have discounted it for months, chart formations are fairly rounds strong, and the likely news developments favor the cheerful side . . . Top this off with the probable fact traffic has turned upward and it is hard to turn away from the rails . . . Atchison, for example, would have to make 50 to give a bearish signal . . . And Pennsylvania would be forced to touch 29 to do the same.

[illegible]

Shorts: Our participation in the decatur is rising as the selling [illegible] it increasingly difficult to drive prices lower . . . Even though they have the benefit of depressed prices in the utility group . . . A marked change for the better in the automobile markets is reported by the Hide & Leather Reporter [illegible] trade magazine says buyers [illegible] more willingness to own [illegible] all descriptions . . . [illegible] the leather and packing [illegible] have been favoring.

NEW SECURITY REGULATIONS DISCUSSED

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 22—In its new [illegible] for better [illegible] operation on [illegible] the Stock Exchange [illegible] Commission [illegible] an important step toward [illegible] the "insiders" [illegible] and [illegible] awarded "break." The new regulations should accomplish [illegible] important things, [illegible] Exchange's standpoint [illegible] [illegible] the mystery out of the [illegible] of "inside stocks."

[illegible] up-to-date information as to the compensation [illegible] [illegible] regular- [illegible] the dealings [illegible] directors of a [illegible] and the stock market [illegible] [illegible] corporation's [illegible] officers and directors [illegible] stock dealings.

[illegible] speculation of a few [illegible] on the New York Stock Exchange [illegible] private information [illegible] [illegible] not available [illegible] [illegible] denied from [illegible] [illegible] of a corporation—the stockholders.

[illegible] still several things to be simplified [illegible] but the SEC announces it is working on these. [illegible] [illegible] of investment [illegible] now [illegible] generally listed, [illegible] meeting [illegible] new requirements.

[illegible] situation in these companies [illegible] different from straight [illegible] [illegible] and commercial concerns, [illegible] because of the very nature of their activities investment of the public's money—more complete information and a better check on the activities of their managements is needed than in [illegible] companies.

Many of these investment trusts are [illegible] more than "blind pools," and what they do with their stockholders' money is pretty much of a secret known only to the officers and directors. In the past this led to the dumping into their portfolios of a lot of cats and dogs which some of those associated with their managements had been unable to peddle elsewhere. This accounted for many of the losses in the trust field.

Also too little is known about the compensation of the trusts' officers and directors. This evil is important to the prospective investor, as well as the old stockholder. All the cost of the management should be clearly shown, whether by the so-called management type of trusts, but also the fixed type.

In the case of the latter, the [illegible] paying [illegible] is [illegible] out of proportion to the services rendered and it would take as much as a 2 or 3 per cent rise in the asset value of the portfolio to equal the cost of administration, income [illegible] brokerage fees, etc.

RADIO SHARES FEATURE IN TRADING

New York, Dec. 22—Violent movements in the shares of Radio Corp. of America, following the surprise announcement of directors that reorganization plans were off for the present, today overshadowed the rest of the stock market.

Radio preferred B, a spectacular performer for several weeks on reports that it would get the "big break" in the recapitalization, tumbled 4¾ points in heavy selling and was able to score only a partial recovery in the later dealings.

The common, on the other hand, which was slated for a 1 for 2 split-down, rallied more than a point, running up from the previous close of 4⅞ to 6 before profit-taking cut its gain. The preferred was affected by the crash in the B shares and lost more than a point.

RAILS EASY

The action of the Radio issues acted as a damper on the rest of the market, and this, with the normal tendency to even up for the coming holidays, brought narrow price movements and quiet dealings.

There were a few issues that bucked the trend. One was National Distillers, which was actively bought and advanced a point. Another was American Can, which hit a new high for the year on the hope of favorable action at the board meeting on Wednesday.

Rails continued under scattered pressure. B. & O. hit a new low for the year. Tractions were again pressed for sale on the deadlock over the negotiations with I. R. T. and Manhattan. I. R. T. common lost another point.

Steels moved narrowly with prices easier. Motors were sluggish in quiet dealings. Oils were unable to get anywhere despite yesterday's activity.

Mining shares were neglected. Utilities continued heavy. Public Service of New Jersey hit a new low, and U. G. I. duplicated its bottom for the year. Consolidated Gas was easy.

Grains were as narrow as stocks, while bonds were weighed down by further pressure on the second grade rails. The dollar was strong.

TRADE TRENDS

What further light was shed on trade trends was dimmed as the financial district focused its attention on the forthcoming session of Congress and the year-end holidays.

A few scattered Christmas wage increases and bonuses, including a general advance in pay by International Business Machines, were accepted as indications of the improvement in business some corporations have experienced this year.

Latest employment statistics, however, did not contribute to Christmas cheer. The November figures of the Bureau of Labor statistics showed 86,000 fewer workers on payrolls. The drop was in line with the seasonal trend. Factory payrolls showed a smaller decline than usual for November.

Reports from some steel centers pointed to relatively well sustained operations in that industry through the final week of the year, despite the holidays. The effect of automotive demand for steel was seen in an estimate that mills in the Youngstown district next week would operate at the highest level for that period since 1929.

The New York City power situation continued to command much interest in the financial community as the city moved toward a municipally-owned electric system to produce power for public buildings and streets.

ST. PAUL IS TO ACCEPT LOAN

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad at a meeting of its directors, decided to accept a loan of $3,500,000 from the RFC, according to President H. A. Scandrett of the road.

In approving the loan the ICC demanded that $6,000,000 St. Paul bonds and the company's equity in the Milwaukee Land Co. be pledged for the company to get a loan of $4,000,000.

They offered the St. Paul a loan of $3,500,000 on the pledge of only the $6,000,000 in bonds.

Quiet Trading in Wool Market

Very little trade is going on now in the Boston wool market. The slackening in sales of wool at this time is being attributed largely to holiday influences and is, therefore, causing no particular concern.

The approach of the year-end holiday season frequently is attended by a decline in activity of wool. Deliveries of recent purchases of raw wool and wool tops are going on, however, at a fairly steady rate. Prices generally are being quite firmly maintained.

Stock Market Time Table

10-11—Mixed tone prevailed in quiet first hour dealings. Rails were steady. Packers were easy. Liquor shares were firm. Sales approximated 270,000 shares.

11-12—Traction issues worked lower in the final hour. Trading was quiet. Market was irregularly lower in late dealings. Sales were estimated at 500,000 shares.

STUDY SILVER QUESTION

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 22—World silver conditions were said in administration quarters today to explain the treasury's studied application of the silver purchase law.

Officials conceded the treasury was proceeding carefully and indicated the reason was the necessity of not disturbing world markets. But they insisted Secretary Morgenthau's pledge that the law would be administered "enthusiastically" still held good.

The administration attitude was learned after several silver bloc senators, including Wheeler of Montana, McCarran of Nevada and Thomas of Oklahoma, had complained that treasury buying had slowed up.

Just how much silver the treasury now holds was a secret. It was estimated unofficially at something over a billion ounces as compared with 680,977,000 ounces held when buying began. To attain the 25-75 ratio with gold directed by law some 2,100,000,000 ounces would be needed on the basis of the present gold stock of $8,198,000,000.

Canadian Bank of Commerce

Net profit of Canadian Bank of Commerce in the year ended November 30, last, was $3,413,654 after bad debts against $3,648,832 in the previous year. Balance carried forward after dividends, depreciation, taxes etc., was $16,816, against $142,667 a year earlier.

Collins & Aikman

Collins & Aikman Corp. reports for nine months ended Dec. 1, 1934, net loss of $254,780 after taxes, depreciation, etc. This compares with net profit of $847,159, equal, after dividend requirements on the 7 per cent preferred, to 91 cents a share on 565,000 shares of common, for nine months ended Nov. 25, 1933.

Commonwealth & Southern Report

Commonwealth & Southern Corp. and subsidiaries report for 12 months ended Nov. 30, 1934, subject to annual audit and year-end adjustments, shows consolidated net income of $8,236,104 after taxes, interest, depreciation, amortization, minority interest, equal to $5.49 a share on 1,499,440 shares of $6 preferred stock. This compares with $8,263,255, or $5.51 a share on the preferred, for 12 months ended Nov. 30, 1933.

Carreras Income Given

Pamphlet report of Carreras, Ltd. (tobacco and cigarettes), for fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1934, certified by independent auditors, shows total income from trading profit, dividends on investments and transfer fees, of 853,318 pounds, against 868,182 pounds in preceding year. After deducting depreciation, directors' fees, income taxes, staff superannuation fund, etc., net amounted to 899,964 pounds, against 803,589 pounds in year ended Oct. 31, 1933.

MILL EARNINGS ARE GIVEN

Goodall Worsted Co. stockholders were told at their annual meeting that there is little likelihood of a dividend within the next 10 or 12 months and no certainty of one at the end of that time.

Company officers were optimistic on the outlook for the principal product, Palm Beach suits, explaining that reports already received indicate a ready response from the trade to the price reduction in effect next season.

Net income of $4.08 a share for the year ended November 30 did not reflect the company's real earning power, owing to the large non-recurring expenses involved in opening up a new plant for suitings, training employes and special charges for merchandising. In the previous year the company earned $6.02.

Huey Lays Plans for White House

By Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 22—Senator Huey P. Long, using the powers handed him by the special session of the State Legislature, laid elaborate plans today for the approaching congressional session and his 1936 presidential campaign.

As for Congress, he said his "share-the-wealth" plan, which was defeated last year, will be reintroduced. The measure would restrict individual wealth and income to give everyone in the nation at least $5000 "free of debt."

"I'm going to put it over," the Kingfish said, "and Roosevelt will come around to it."

As for the presidency, he began to lay an early and extensive groundwork. One of the laws enacted by the legislature this week authorized Louisiana State University to purchase or lease a radio station or make arrangements for a chain of stations.

Long probably will rely greatly on the radio in his campaign for the presidency, as he has in state campaigns.

More Wassail

By Associated Press

London, Dec. 22—Londoners are to be permitted an extra hour of wassail on Christmas and New Year's Eve because they behaved so well at the wedding of the Duke of Kent to Princess Marina, Scotland Yard officials approved the dispensation. It will be the first time since DORA was "born" that London pubs have been permitted to remain open overtime on a holiday eve.

Dora, the Defense of the Realm Act, was the measure enacted during the war to increase British efficiency by restricting drinking hours, among other things.

R. W. CHILD SAYS—

HIGH COURT MUST NOT BE 'PACKED'

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and Former U. S. Ambassador to Italy

The Supreme Court?

EVEN THE IMPLICATION THAT THE COURT CAN BE STUFFED BY ADDING AN INCREASED NUMBER OF POLITICALLY TAGGED JUSTICES will make American blood boil.

And yet Washington is full of whispers that under the Constitution this could be done by any President who wished his politics legalized by a "FRAMED SUPREME COURT." Of course, Mr. Roosevelt would rightfully resent any suggestion of this kind.

R. W. Child

Bad enough is the new multiplication of chances for a BUREAUCRACY TO ISSUE ORDERS AND ENFORCE them WITHOUT APPEAL TO ANY REAL JUDICIAL BODY.

We are not used to GOVERNMENT BY CZARS, whether there be one big Czar or, worse yet, many thousand OFFICE-HOLDER KALSERS.

Bad enough also is the growing belief that the attitude of our Judiciary can be told IN ADVANCE by their "POLITICAL LEANINGS."

Must Uphold Law

The LAW should be the LAW. It should not be bent to "THE RIGHT" or to "THE LEFT." Judges should not sit because they are CONSERVATIVES OR LIBERALS. They should sit because they KNOW and are ON THE LEVEL.

The whole theory of JUSTICE is based upon IMPARTIALITY. If JUSTICE is to be administered by those WHO ARE APPOINTED BECAUSE OF FRIENDLY VIEWS TOWARD A POLITICAL CONTERIES, then JUSTICE is a travesty.

AND COURTS BECOME STACKED DECKS.

With a stacked-deck Supreme Court the Constitution and the whole basis for the American order of things could be twisted into a shapeless mass.

Endangers Freedom

Today, those who believe that a stacked-deck judiciary would be desirable so that more LIBERAL VIEWS WOULD PREVAIL forget that sometime a STACKED-DECK JUDICIARY might whittle away all of the protection from exploitation that the LITTLE AND "FORGOTTEN" FOLKS have now!

Today, those JOHNNY-JUMP-UPS in the brain trust who would like to see the courts—even the Supreme Court—"FIXED UP," fail to tell the American people that when LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATION control JUSTICE then FREEDOM and FAIR PLAY and a WELL-ORDERED CIVILIZATION GO:

OUT THE WINDOW!

LAWYERS TAKE HAUPTMANN SPOTLIGHT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 22—A great courtroom drama is looming just ahead—the trial, opening January 2, of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused of the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

In the center of the courtroom arena will be a brilliant array of lawyers, the men who will take part in the mighty battle of "the State versus the Defense." They will be in the world spotlight. Newspapermen will write thousands of words about the counsel in this celebrated case.

Wilentz, Reilly, Hauck, Fisher, Lanigan, Lager, Pope. These are the names of attorneys whose names will constantly recur in newspaper copy; whose names will be carried in dispatches sent to all parts of the world.

Heading the prosecution will be Attorney-General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey, who was "once a newspaper man himself." Only 39, he will cut a fine figure in the courtroom. Sleek-haired, dark-skinned, dark-eyed, with a magnificent command of the English language, he has the manners of a Chesterfield and the eloquence of a Demosthenes.

REILLY IS VETERAN

Pitted against him as chief counsel for the defense will be Edward J. Reilly, veteran of the New York bar, who has tried more than 1,000 murder cases with amazing success. Stocky of build, ruddy faced, with sparse gray-brown hair and a deep, clear voice, Reilly has a personality that is certain to click in a big way and make legal history in Hunterdon county.

Wilentz will be assisted by the capable and courteous Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., prosecutor of Hunterdon county; the brainy "Joe" Lanigan, assistant attorney general; the experienced George K. Large of Flemington, and others.

Co-operating with Reilly, as co-counsel for the defense, will be the astute and forceful Lloyd Fisher of Flemington, and F. R. Pope, a highly regarded lawyer of Somerville.

The chief of the prosecution forces, Wilentz, is one of the most brilliant lawyers in New Jersey. At 39 he has made a name for himself in Jersey politics and already there are expectations that some day he will be governor.

Reilly, the chief of the defense, has practiced in both New York and New Jersey for 25 years. In that time he has defended every woman accused of murder in Brooklyn, with two exceptions, and he won acquittal in every case.

FISHER DEFENDS CURTIS

Lanigan will be one of Wilentz's "right-hand men." Whenever New Jersey become involved in important litigation, either criminal or civil, Assistant Attorney General Joseph L. Lanigan has been assigned as chief to the attorney general.

Lloyd Fisher, who will help Reilly try to free Hauptmann, was the keen lawyer who is regarded by members of his profession as likely to have a notable future.

Brilliant defender of John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., shipbuilder who achieved nation-wide publicity when he was in contact with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby. It developed into one of the many typical false alarm Lindbergh case stories and Curtis was ultimately tried in Flemington for his deception. He was convicted, but his sentence was suspended after the payment of a fine.

George K. Large, who will be on the prosecution's side, is president of the Hunterdon County Bar Association.

ABOUT FACES by ART. MOGER

Today's "About Faces" stars appear at the Lynn Paramount Theater where the screen features them in "College Rhythm" and "Ready for Love." If you are hopeful of receiving a share of the $25 in weekly cash awards as offered by the Boston Evening American to its readers, we urge you to visit the Lynn Paramount Theater where you will find the clues to today's Hollywood identities.

To successfully compete in this week's "About Faces" series by Art. Moger here's all you have to do: After attending your favorite theater showing your favorite stars as they appear in the "About Faces" cartoon, fill in their identifications in the squares beneath their drawings. These squares equal the number of letters in their names. Use the letters given as a guide to the correct clues and mail your ENTIRE week's solutions to: The About Faces Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass.

Second Prize, $3: Joe Hickey 50 B street, South Boston.

George Lorentz, 70 Magnolia street, Arlington.
Dorothy Towne, 131 Chatham street, E. Lynn.
M. Ingraham, 8 Quincy street, Watertown.
K. A. Wood, 51 Garrison road, Brookline.
F. E. Gilmore, 425 Union street, Lynn.
Natalie Goldreyer, 357 Lafayette street, Salem.
A. MacEachern, 1069 Boylston street, Boston.
Sarah Birstein, 16 Gannett street, Roxbury.
Mrs. Ethel Fougere, 28 Monmouth street, East Boston.
Aurel Guimond, 1417 Globle street, Fall River.
M. Woods, 32 Marshall street, Winthrop.
Agnes Jannetti, 139 Cushing street, Cambridge.

That's all the winners for this week, meanwhile—Ye About Faces Editor wishes you and yours the Season's best Greetings!

3 Harvard Boys in Crash, Unhurt

Palmer, Dec. 22—Three students from Harvard, driving home for the Christmas holidays, escaped serious injury or death here when their machine plunged down a 50-foot embankment at the side of the road, turned over twice, and finally settled upside down on a railroad track.

They were Thomas J. J. Jenkins, of Ravenna, O.; A. B. Schneider, Jr., of Cleveland, O., both entirely unhurt, and Rogers Crosby, of Rockport, N. Y., only slightly injured.

This Knitted Blouse Is Exclusive

KNITTED BLOUSE PATTERN 887

Get out your knitting needles—and they can be good-sized ones too—for here is a smart sport blouse waiting to be done! It's lovely in a mixed yarn with a plain colar and belt—but, of course, you can do it in just solid colors too. It's just straight knitting the same size needles throughout, so even the beginner can try her hand at it. She'll end up with a blouse that will delight her. It can be made with long or short sleeves, as directions for both are given.

Pattern 887 comes to you with detailed directions for making the blouse shown with long or short sleeves; illustrations of it and of all stitches used; material requirements, and color suggestions.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred), for this pattern, to Boston Evening American, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y.

Heroism at Sea

Rescue of Sisto's Crew

THE brave rescue in mid-Atlantic of the crew of the little freighter Sisto has added another to the stirring dramas of the sea.

The far cry of the radio had brought a group of succoring vessels to the Sisto's side, but the fury of the storm and the dangerous seas held back the work of rescue.

The radio's call was picked up by the New York, of the Hamburg-American Line. She, too, was in the grip of the tempest and many knots away, but there was no quaver of uncertainty in the response which her veteran commander at once signalled:

"Will arrive at S.S. Sisto in two hours and take them off."

No hesitation or uncertainty in that message! No reference to "conditions permitting" or any other contingency.

WHILE the vessels which had preceded him stood by, he no sooner came alongside than one of his lifeboats was launched with a volunteer crew of as fine and daring seamen as ever lived.

The rescue was soon accomplished and Captain Kruse and his fine ship assured of a place in the hall of heroes.

Grant's laconic message, "I propose to move on your works immediately," did not more truly speak the man born to command than the terse words of Captain Kruse.

Another memorable name has been added to the histories and the school books!

Taxes Must Come Down

Present System Wrong

Statistics lately made public by Henry Long, Massachusetts Commissioner of Taxation, showed plainly that the taxpayers will pay IF they can.

It is when they find the burden of taxation TOO HEAVY that they fail to pay.

The fault clearly lies with the system—Federal, State, county, city or town—that is seeking to exact too much of what the Bible calls "Caesar's tribute."

Despite the existence of a clear way out of our tax muddles—imposing a "painless" general manufacturers' sales tax and scrapping antiquated income and many other nuisance taxes—officialdom has hesitated.

The tax inventors seek foolishly to ADD to present burdens.

Music by Weight

Scales on Scales

Now, however, the same kind of scale as the meat man uses has been applied to the musical art, and criticism may express itself in terms of gross weight as well as of harmonics and melody.

As for contrast, a Chopin Prelude weighs only 60 pounds, while a certain "light" and popular ballad hits the beam at 336. However, we are told:

The "First $100"

Can't Pay If We Haven't It

The presence of the "racket" taint has long been evident to the general public.

More than a few of our thinking citizens have expressed the conviction that many drivers are more careless when insured and aware that they face no financial responsibility if an accident happens.

The proposition is advanced that the insured will be more careful if made to pay the first $100 of the damages.

But didn't the legislators put compulsory insurance on the statute books because it was claimed that hosts of drivers were financially irresponsible?

It is pertinent for us to ask where the "first $100" is coming from when the driver hasn't $100?

Gulliver Starts a Nation Wide Cleanup!

Declaration of War Against Crime

Whereas, the Majesty of Law has cringed at gangdom's fang and claw;

Whereas, chicanery and craft, corruption, crookedness and graft have caused our servants to betray our confidence and trust—and pay;

Now, therefore, we declare grim war on all this vile malignant corps that stalks with swaggering arrogance across our nation's wide expanse.

War to the death against the foe that menaces the High and Low; war against murder, torture, hate, and lust and greed insatiate;

War on the legal subtleties of those who live on gangdom's fees; and war on our protectors who protect crime's slimy, yellow crew.

War is declared—and not to cease till we have won at last to peace by leaving lifeless in the grime the hydra-headed beast of crime!

Until that purpose we fulfill we war to win—and shoot to kill!

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

The Globe Trotter of Hearst Metrotone News

This department recently commented on the Mitsui Company of Japan as a carry-over of a great and growing corporation from the age of feudalism into the age of industrialism—suggesting that the dividing lines between the two epochs are not so clearly marked as we have been accustomed to think.

At hand today is another reminder that great human enterprise, once it gets a good running start, is quite apt to hurdle the abstractions which historians set up.

250 YEARS OLD

It is a beautifully printed and illustrated monograph, issued by the Hudson's Bay Company in commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the grant of the royal charter to "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson's Bay."

Here's a tale for a romance-hungry lad, cutting the pages with his boy scout knife, and it's a tale for any adult who can thrill to the conquest of the wilderness, or any serious-minded person who likes a bit of economic history, a fascinating story of England's great world outreach in those brave Elizabethan days.

It is simply told, with characteristic British reserve, and all the better reading therefore. The casual account of the early "adventurers" eating "tripe de roche," a soup made from green moss, seems a lot more exciting, thus simply related, than if it had been fanned up into melodrama by some literary journeyman.

Prince Rupert was the first governor, named by King Charles II in 1670, and Sir R. M. Kindersley, G. B. E., is the governor today. It was in 1688 that the stout little ships, the Eaglet and the Nonsuch, sailed down the Thames for Gravesend on their "deeds of high emprise."

A company had been formed, with the Duke of York the first stockholder, but the official charter was not granted until two years later.

John Cabot had discovered Canada in 1497, assigned by Henry VII "to seeke out, discover and find whatsoever isles, countries, regions or provinces of the heathen and infidels which before this time have been unknown to Christians."

He, like the others, had sought a short route to India, and through the story of the Hudson's Bay Company runs the epic of this endeavor of centuries.

A bucko lot were those trappers and gold-seekers of two centuries ago, long before steam heat made us all "nesh," as the Elizabethans used to call the softies. I found the accounts of the Indians fascinating:

"At night they guide themselves by the stars, from which they learn to keep their direction, and regain it if they lose their way. Among the Iroquois the favorite guide in the fall and winter is the cluster of the Pleiades, as it has been in all ages in all parts of the world.

"When the Eskimos first saw glass, they mistook it for ice, and thought it would melt in their mouths. They were greatly puzzled by woolen clothing, asked of what kinds of skins it was made and were unable to comprehend that it was not made of skin at all. They took watches and musical instruments for living creatures, a musical snuff box being, in their opinion, the child of a hand-organ."

Equally fascinating is the story of the beaver, an important item in the history of the Hudson's Bay Company. It will be reviewed in a later article.

Hendrik Van Loon -:- On Affairs in Russia

Hendrik Van Loon

A young man who did not like the cold blasts of the northern winter went to Florida for his vacation. The day after he arrived he decided that he would go swimming, and so he asked a little colored boy, who was standing near the water's edge, whether there were any sharks in that part of the world. The little boy shook his head and said, "No, sir."

And so our friend went swimming and nothing happened to him, and when he came back to dry land he gave the pickaninny a quarter and said, "Your are a bright boy; but how did you know that there were not any sharks?"

And the youngster answered, "Where there are so many crocodiles there are never any sharks."

CONSOLIDATION SEEN

There is a great deal of consolation in that thought for those of us who are not apt to take life a little too seriously: "Where there are too many sharks, there are never any crocodiles," and vice versa.

When I was in Russia, 30 years ago, thousands of little boys and girls were marched through the Kremlin to look at the venerable remains of a holy man who had departed this life 900 years ago, and whose remains ever since had reposed in a golden coffin in the crypt of the chapel of St. Stanislaus Duraski.

And when these little boys and girls approached the last resting place of the holy man, their papas picked them up by the scruffs of their necks and in that uncomfortable position they were urged to kiss a piece of bone, which was supposed to be the holy man's skull.

That had been going on for hundreds and hundreds of years, and everybody had taken it for granted, until the wicked Bolsheviks opened up the coffin and claimed they found nothing there in but a few odd bricks and a piece of bone that had never belonged to any human skeleton.

Having thus "exposed" the old rulers of their happy country (the photograph of their alleged find was publicized far and wide), they hastily sent to Berlin for a famous anatomist and bade the professor do an embalming job on the remains of their late leader and do it in such a way that all future generations might behold him as he had looked during his lifetime.

They tell me (I have little love for such exhibitions) that the excellent Teuton achieved such results that the late Comrade Lenin actually looks better in death than he ever did in life.

I am informed that millions and millions of school children are dragged to Moscow to stand in awe and reverence before the bier of their departed master.

SAME OLD STORY

Immediately afterwards they are taken to the Anti-Religion Museum.

It is the same old story. When there are sharks, there are no crocodiles, and when there are no crocodiles, there are sharks.

The next time you read William Tell and feel outraged at the arrogance of the Hapsburg governor who tried to make free-born Swiss citizens bow low before the emblems of imperial authority, please remember what our own Flag Association could do to us, if our national temperament were not possessed of too much sense of the ludicrous to stand for that particular brand of professional patriotism.

The French have a proverb which says that the more things seem to change, the more they really remain the same. I am afraid that, in this instance at least, the French are dead right.

REASON FOR LIFE

I don't know how to say it but somehow it seems to me
That maybe we are stationed where God wanted us to be;
That the little place I'm filling is the reason for my birth,
And just to do the work I do He sent me down to earth.

If God had wanted otherwise, I reckon He'd have made
Me just a little different, of a worse or better grade.
And since God knows and understands all things of land and sea
I fancy that He placed me here just where he wanted me.

Sometimes I get to thinking as my labors I review
That I should like a higher place with greater tasks to do.
But I come to the conclusion, when the envying is stilled
That the post to which God sent me is the post He wanted filled.

So I plod along and struggle in the hope when day is through
That I'm really necessary to the things God wants to do.
And there isn't any service I can give which I should scorn
For it may be just the reason God allowed me to be born.

(Copyright, 1934, Edgar A. Guest.)

Isn't It So?

Forgiveness is not easy for us humans. Some wonder whether it is easy for God.

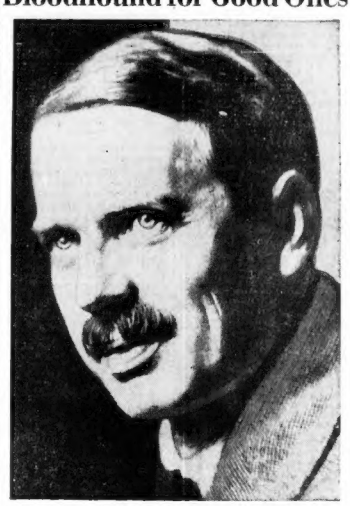
The Communist Program of World Revolution

"The conquest of power by the proletariat is the VIOLENT ABOLITION of the power of the bourgeoisie, the DESTRUCTION of the MACHINERY of the capitalist state.

"WE proclaim openly that our design can only be realized by the VIOLENT OVERTHROW of the ENTIRE TRADITIONAL social order."

[The above policies were formally adopted and promulgated as the Communist program by the Sixth Congress of the Kommintern of the Communists' Internationale, which was held in 1928 in Moscow.]

Bloodhound for Good Ones



EDWARD J. O'BRIEN, EXPERT ON SHORT STORIES

"I see every one of the thousands of short stories published in England and America," says Edward J. O'Brien. "I don't read all—I sniff at them. I have a quick nose for bad eggs. But I read the good ones through, and select the best for the book of magazine stories I have published each year since 1915."

"The American public is extremely intelligent," he says. "Now, more than ever before, the brilliant young writer has a chance to sell his stories. The form of the short story is not settled—it changes all the time. That is a good sign. Only dead things stay still."

LIVES IN ENGLAND

Mr. O'Brien lives at Oxford, in England, with his wife and ten-year-old son, whom he describes as "nothing to boast about—just normal," and then smiles with such delight that you feel sure the little boy must be a genius. Born in America, Mr. O'Brien has acquired a curious accent. It is a mixture of the flat A of Boston (he went to Harvard), a trace of brogue (his Irish inheritance), a soupcon of thick Yorkshire dialect (his first wife came from Yorkshire), the whole thing balanced by a German accent (his second wife came from Prussia).

"American short stories are better than the English ones," he says. "The English stories are written by bright young men from the universities. Nobody else can get a reading, which results in perfectly written stories that amount to nothing. The young men have been shielded too carefully. American stories may be roughly drawn, but they are real and important, because those that write them are real and important, not just highbrows."

Mr. O'Brien's favorite relaxation is a long walking trip. His suppressed desire is to write poetry, which he has not done since he was 26, because, as he explains, poetry is a substitute for life. Apparently when he was 26 he began really to live. One wonders how. Was it a lady-o- an illness, or the war; or did he go tiger hunting?

"STORY OF THE MONTH"

"Mr. Herbert Mayes, editor of PICTORIAL REVIEW, has asked me to choose the 'Story of the Month' for his magazine for the next 12 months," he says. I have always been interested in PICTORIAL REVIEW, because throughout its career it has seemed to me to reflect what I have tried to develop in my anthologies—a real interest in good fiction and in giving opportunity to the good news writer."

Mr. O'Brien believes that if you live in the city it is hard for you to write, because you are constantly bombarded by sounds and sights that distract you. That is why better writing comes from the country, he says.

And he would not advise you to try to earn your living by writing. "You can earn more with less work, in any other field," he says, and sighs, picking up the bill for the tea. He himself does not write.
